THE OLD ACTOR.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER,
BY W. R. BARBER.

On his brow is writ Time's autograph,
And a treble shrill is the player's laugh;
The frosts of threescore on his locks he bears;
Of a quaint old cut is the coat he wears,
Yet still can he cite from memory's page
Rare jests of the greenroom and the stage,
And oft with mirth have the rafters rung
With the quips that roll from his merry tongue,
While the jovial twinkle of his eye,
As the old man drains his wineglass dry,
Right plainly shows that he still is blessed
With much of his old-time, youthful zest.
He can tell of the Kembles, Kean and Booth,
Friends and companions of his youth,
And many a star whom Fame records
As a shining light of the mimic boards.
He'll recall the old Park's palmiest days,
And the mighty shades of the Past will raise
The elder Matthews and Tyrone Power,
Who made Gotham split its sides by the hour;
Or Cushman's triumphs he'll review;
Has a word for "our" Mary Taylor too,
And many another will he name,
Meting judicious praise or blame.

Oft have I sat of a Winter's night,
When the coals glowed red and the gas shone bright,
And harkened to tales of bygone years
That he poured into ever-willing ears,
While among the listeners gathered round,
Were footlight favorites long renowned,
And youthful aspirants after fame;
Who for counsel shrouded to the old man came;
And men about town and ladies fair
I've seen by the ancient player's chair.
He has, I believe, but one foe—the gout!
And anathemas dire sometimes pop out
When he feels that cruel enemy nip
His poor old toes with its vice-like grip.
Once I heard him say with a comic grin—Assumed to hide the pain he was in—
"When the scene shifts, and I'm called to appear
In other parts, this gout, it is clear,
Will be the call-boy!" Thus did he cloak
A bitter pang with a passing joke.
True votary he of the mimic art,
The dramatists he has by heart,
But most he delights in the humorous vein,
"For life," so he says, "has enough of pain
Without stage sorrows; better amuse
Than give a man a fit of the blues!"
A kinder heart ne'er warmed man's breast
Than that which beats 'neath his ample vest.
Long may it pulsate, long this voice
With its sound his myriad friends rejoice;
May his frame, like the oak, resist decay,
Unscathed by the years as they lapse away;
And when, at length, through extremest age
Endeth his earthly pilgrimage,
Peacefully may those moments pass—
The final grains in life's hour-glass!
Calm be his exit from the scene,
His worth shall keep his memory green!

ADA LEE;

OR,

THE MYSTERY OF DEUTEROSCOPY.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER,
BY WILLIAM H. RUSHNELL.

Separation, if destined to be long, draws hearts,
And especially those of lovers, more closely together, shadows the latest moments of association and hides the sun of the future behind clouds heavy with forebodings and dark with premoni-tions of doubt and disaster.

It was so with Rex Wilbur and Ada Lee as they sat by the sea watching the gulls dipping their white wings in the placid water and the ripples that broke in tiny foam-beds and with a soft feline purring at their feet. For a little time there had been silence between them. Feeling had become too deep for utterance. The dread that they might never meet again weighed down their hearts.
Almost unconsciously Wilbur had taken the parasol from the hand of Ada Lee and traced his name with its point in the shining sand. Then, and with his pulse quickened by a new emotion, he looked up and asked:

"Is it to be thus, darling?"
"Thus? I do not understand," she answered, questioningly, and with deeper blushes curdling upon her cheeks.

"Is my name traced only in the shifting sands of your heart, and liable to be washed away by the waves of separation?"

"Never! Living or dead I will be true to you, will ever be with you."

He looked at her with an awed and startled expression creeping into his manly and usually beaming face, laid his hand tenderly upon hers, looked earnestly into the large, luminous black eyes, and continued:

"Do you believe in Theosophy, Ada?"

"No, dear, not that we are wise as God is wise. I do not believe that while in the flesh we shall ever know ought of His hidden mysteries; in the sense that he permits souls when separated to hold communion together I do believe."

"That is simply theoric."

"It has been proven as clearly as the bow He set in the heavens declares His majesty and glory," and her voice deepened, became more pulsed with feeling, more subtle and penetrating in its magnitude.

"You mean, darling, that when sleeping you will dream of me?"

"That and very much more than that. You remember—we read it together in the De Divina-tione—that 'the soul flourishes in sleep, freed from the senses and all impending cares, while the body lies supine, as if dead.'"

"Yes, and proving my assertion."

"And, to quote again from the same source,
'when the soul in sleep is screened from companionship and the contagion of the body, it remembers the past, discerns the present, foresees the future.'"

"To deny that visions come during slumber would be obstinately idiotic. But this can be accounted for by natural causes."

"Sometimes; yet there are well authenticated cases—plenty of them—where dreams have been prophetic."

"Possibly."

"I have faith in a beyond, in waking ones, in the soul—and I use the term as something higher, greater and farther reaching than what is termed mind."

"The two terms are but synonyms for a single sense."

"Not so. Mind is simply earthly; the soul is essentially and supremely spiritual; mind is finite, the soul is infinite—is not fettered by time or space; is independent of surroundings, of distance, and the lenses through which it looks are cleansed from all of mortal film."

"Perhaps," he answered, doubtfully and uneasily, "there may come such a moment just prior to death."

"There do come moments of blissful foreknowl-edge then, but the divining power is not confined to the dissolution of mortal flesh and spiritual essence. It always exists; weak and undeveloped it may in the many, only strong and active in the few, vague and shadowy with the masses, giving the presence of divinity only to a very small minority."

"And you, Ada? Have you this mysterious, this occult, this wonderful gift of second-sight?" he asked with uncertain voice and quivering nerves.

"Of Deuterocopy; that is dreaming without sleeping, seeing things happening or to happen miles away, having painted in glowing lights and shades upon my waking brain what is transpiring or soon to transpire though seas divide and mountains intervene."

"That is what I would know, dear."

"I have frequently had premonitions of such a power. Premonitions I say, for it requires some strong incentive, influence or passion to call it fully and forcibly into action."

"As love?"

"That is the most potent of all, for it is the direct infiltration of the divine into the human; but earnest sympathy, pity, the hoping to save from disaster, the imperative necessity of warning against coming danger will give to the soul wings, to thought transference, to the spirit telegraphic currents."

"You believe, then," he questioned, "that when I am a thousand miles away you can send your soul seeking for mine, and, having found, can inform me of your presence, can whisper with spirit lips, as you are now doing with mortal ones?
I am as one in the dark searching for light."

"So are we all. The wisest in psychology, the deepest student in the phenomena of hypnotism, of psychomachy, are but as children learning to walk. We may reach a higher plane, but never the highest until there is a final and total separation of spirit and matter, of earthly dust and the reflected glory of the Godhead."

"You believe this?" he repeated, unable to dispute, wondering at the slight, usually pale girl who in the hour of parting had been born as to a new life and become pulsed with a spirit above and beyond earth; had become radiant with beauty such as she had never before possessed. He looked at her, startled at the change, amazed at the development, the latent force of character and knowledge she revealed.

Her eyes had become brilliantly phosphorescent;
the electric induction of her hair was perfect.
Touched by his fingers it rayed out lambent sparkles and shot bee-like stings. Her breath was hot and deeply drawn. Every nerve was quivering with excitement, though the muscles were firm and form braced as that of an athlete awaiting attack. She appeared to him the incarnation of the spirit in the flesh, and his love became tinged with awe and partook more of reverence.

But, notwithstanding her mental excitement and almost inspiration, her words were calmly uttered
as she answered:

"The incident, dream-foretelling of the doom of the unfortunate Andre just prior to his embarkation for America; the ghastly images reflected upon the negative of the brain of Macbeth as depicted by Shakespeare; the visions of the 'gilded Highland Seer' recorded by Scott in the Legend of Montrose, are too familiar to need repeating.
So are the writings of Swedenborg. Indeed, to use the words of another, that 'the soul of a living person possesses this power of disengaging itself for a time from the fleshly body and appearing at a distance by means of the more ethereal body which is proper to it,' I dare not question against the proof. Again: that 'deep mutual sympathy between two widely separated individuals may bring this faculty into play when one of the parties is in sore distress craves the other's presence and aid,' I dare no more disbelieve than my own being. And this actio in distans transcends no spiritual law, but is only the foreshadowing of the wider, higher and holier destiny that awaits the soul when death has removed earthly shackles and it floats and soars free-winged from pole to pole, from star to star, from burned-out moon to living worlds—worlds continually vanishing and being re-created—through an immensity of space the human mind cannot grasp."

The sea that had lawfully licked their feet had grown restless and defiant. Up from the depths of its bosom great waves had risen, came rolling in, fringed with tawny foam, and dashed upon the sands as if hungry and prey-seeking. The wind had increased. Its low, plaintive murmuring had changed to whistling blasts and threatening shrieks. In tangled, twisting masses, as if thousands of huge dark serpents were sporting together, the clouds swept past. From the distance came ominous mutterings of thunder and the hiss and flash of lightning. The armies of nature were

In line for battle, and against their combined force human might would be as a breastwork of spider spinnings.

"We must hurry home, darling," said Wilbur, throwing the light scarf of the girl around her shoulders. "The storm is coming very rapidly—will soon be here."

"Yes," was answered with a sigh. "The spirits of earth, air and water are angry at our daring investigation of their realms. Yes, we must go, but there will come a time when we will be greater than all of them, when we swing in the hammock of clouds and the fiercely flashing lights of the upper air be but as harmless torches to guide us in our spiritual flight."

The spell that had been upon them thus rudely broken, human love and fear asserted themselves, and the cravings of the heart would not, could not be satisfied. Shudderingly, they listened to the voices of the tempest, but within their breasts all was peace, save the ever-present ghost of separation, the haunting horror of never meeting again.

"Remember," said the girl, with an almost holy kiss, "remember, dear, I will be ever present with you. Living or dead—"

"Hush, darling. Do not speak of death. That thought would make me the worst of cowards, and, throwing business, honor and duty to the winds, I would remain by your side."

Bravely she kept back her tears, and endeavored to send him from her radiant with hope. Yet her own soul was painfully troubled. Despite his patient listening she could not but realize that he regarded her as a deluded, fancifully-dreaming, enthusiastic girl of highly nervous and sensitive organization.

"Will you, oh, will you not believe?" she had pleaded with her parting breath, and his answer chilled and forced her soul back upon itself.

"For your sake, darling," he replied, gallant and tender to the last. "I try to do so. Come to me when I am far away, give me some realistic token of your spirit presence, and there shall be no more fervent worshipper at the shrine of the immortal."

But notwithstanding his almost cynical skepticism the conversation exerted a powerful influence over him for a time. Much more than he would have acknowledged, he was watching for some token that the spirit of the girl was near him. None came. Weeks passed and he felt as if he had never more been alone. He saw no ethereal form standing by him in the sunlight, none by his pillow when darkness covered the earth and the glory of stars was above. There was nothing to indicate telegraphing of soul to soul, of a spirit hovering near, no whisperings of unseen lips, no mystery of mind reading mind, nothing of the union of hearts save letters fragrant with the sweet perfume of love.

After a month of separation unforeseen complications of business entirely changed his plans. In a directly opposite direction to the mapped-out journey must his steps be turned. There was no time for or means of advising his love. Even the lightning failed him. A mighty storm had beaten down wire and poles in forest and open fields; an inland rushing tidal wave swept away miles of the slender thought railway along the shore.

"My darling must wait until I reach the end of the journey for news of the change," he murmured audibly. "Knowing where I would be at certain times she might send her spirit upon errands of love and mercy, might possibly stand by my side and whisper words of warning. Henceforth, it will be impossible until she receives another letter, for I will be far away from where she fondly dreams."

His destination was the sea-coast. He walked along the platform of the little wayside station to the office and requested a ticket.

As he did so a hand cold as ice and sinewed with iron clasped his wrist and drew his arm back.
He turned quickly and angrily around to learn who had dared to molest him. There was no one in sight. The agent and he were alone.
For a moment he was staggered, knew not what to think. He fancied he must have accidentally hit the point of his elbow against some sharp projection and numbly and partially paralyzed his arm.

He endeavored to again grasp the proffered ticket, found the resistance was even more powerful than before, his sinews less under his own control, and was as certain as of his own existence that he felt the lightest of kisses upon his lips and heard breathed into his ear the most plaintive pleading
"Don't go."

By a mighty effort he compelled the physical to obey his will, secured the ticket and entered the cars as they came to the station. But all through the day, the long and tedious ride, he was aware he was not alone, that some invisible presence was seated beside him, that a shadowy hand nestled within his own, that a voice was constantly urging him to turn back, that at every stopping-place an unseen and almost irresistible force endeavored to drag him from the cars.

Worn out by mental anxiety, perplexed more than ever before, as one in a somnambulistic state, he landed at Charleston and sought a hotel and rest. He could no longer doubt that the spirit of the girl he loved had been with him, had been wrestling with his own, had been earnestly warning of some coming danger.

The city never looked brighter or more attractive; the populace never more contented and happy.
With the sweet perfume of flower and vine stole in through the windows merry song and careless laughter. The Cooper and Ashley flowed smoothly along and the ocean stretched away with the moon, sailing through a cloudless sky, making the ripples as burnished silver. The wind toyed softly with palmetto and palm, and the stars looked down upon the peaceful scene as in holy benediction.

To obtain a trifle of rest, even before breaking his fast, the tired traveler threw himself upon the bed without undressing, and consciousness was soon lost in slumber. But how long he slept he never knew. From its depths he was suddenly recalled to wakefulness by a voice that thrilled through the mental organism as galvanism does through the physical, bidding him arise and flee;
by the terrible warning that to remain would be death. Startled and alarmed he sprang up and asked:

"What is the matter? Is the house on fire?"

His own breath came back to him chilly as Winter. He became conscious of a presence, saw it

JENNIE YEAMANS, ACTRESS.

dimly outlined in the darkness, and stretched out his arms welcomingly.

"Ada, darling! Great Heaven!" he exclaimed. "How came you here? Of what would you warn me?"

The presence was so real, the visual sensation so perfect, that his understanding was baffled, and he could not distinguish for a time between substance and shadow, flesh and blood and a phantom. Then, as his senses threw off the clouding influences of slumber, he knew in his soul that a spirit was there.

"Dear," was answered, "fly while there is yet time. The Lord is abroad in His majesty and might; the sea will arise and kiss his feet, the solid earth will shudder in His awful presence, the rocks fall down in worship and the mountains bow in adoration. He cometh not in peace, but in wrath. Fly while there is yet time."

The words were meaningless to him. He could make nothing of them. Again he begged for an explanation. With one hand pointing aloft to heaven, with one pointing downward to the earth, the form of Ada Lee, white as a chrysalis, impalpable as air, but certain as marble in its development, slowly faded away. But long after the shadow of the reality had disappeared he could hear, growing fainter and fainter, the terrible words:

"HE COMETH NOT IN PEACE, BUT IN WRATH!"

Dazed, awed, trembling, uncertain of action, Rex Wilbur crept to a window to look out upon the night for some tangible evidence of coming disaster.

A great and fearful change had taken place. Moon and stars were blotted out, were hidden behind whirling masses of ink clouds. The wind was moaning and shivering as it came up from an ocean lashed to foam. Waves were rushing over waves, each greater and more resistless than the last. The trees were wildly tossing and twisting their branches; the strongest trunks were bowed and torn. The earth groaned as some monster in pain, trembled and was convulsed. The stout ships in the harbor reeled as drunken men, stood still, then "leaped a cable's length."

Yes, the Lord was abroad in the majesty and might of His wrath, man bowed down in abject fear, and the work of his hands were but as straws in a whirlwind.

A moment of crushing anxiety and suspense, and the cause was made plain.

From every portion of the city, with strangled utterances from those drowning in the inward sweeping tidal wave, from the huts of the negro, from the mansions of the rich, came weeping and wailing, and praying for succor and safety. Every light had been extinguished. To add to the other and complicated horrors, all were stricken as if with blindness. The earth was rocking as if angrily tossed "in the hollow of his hand;" houses were shaken down to foundation-stones; rivers were over-running their banks; streets were yawning and swallowing all within their reach; plains were ridged with giant furrows, and the mountains were seamed with mighty scars.

The Lord was abroad in the majesty and might of His terrible wrath, and as Rex Wilbur sank unperceived, unmanned to the vibrating, cracking, splintering floor, his white and quivering lips took up the cry of the stricken city, and he gasped:

"AN EARTHQUAKE! May Heaven have mercy."

There flashed through his fast-numbing brain words until then forgotten—"when one of the parties in sore distress craves the other's presence and aid," and he called out as if to spirits was giving mortal hearing:

"Ada, darling, save me."

Was it fancy, was it reality, that from the blackness of darkness, above the coming deluge, the sobbings, walls, groans, the crash of matter wrecked, the rumbling thunder of the earthquake, a voice calm, low and sweet came, saying:

"Courage. Love leaves not its own to perish, and the Lord helps those who help themselves."

In an instant he was upon his feet, groping his way for the door for the stairs to descend. Along the rocking, tilting, upheaving floor he went, with walls swaying and ceiling falling. Thus—a stranger in the house—he soon became lost among the intricate passages, and, exhausted by the battle, wounded and bleeding from unseen, but heavy, blows, he sank hopelessly to the floor—his last prayer for mercy, his last blessing for her he loved.

An invisible hand lifted him again to his feet, an invisible hand clasped his with firm though tender grasp. He was drawn, guided by some supernatural power, out from the little better than wreck of hotel, through streets filled with flying debris, through shrieking, raving, imploring humanity, safely around yawning chasms sucking down to death everything near away from subterranean-born fountains belching forth blazing gas, boiling, hissing water and huge stones; beyond the insatiable maw of the tidal wave; beyond rocking steeples, falling walls and the fierce rain of brick and timber; piloted through darkness profound beyond the extreme limits of the doomed city.

Then the guiding hand released him, a face more than mortal fair and shining with more than mortal glory beamed down upon him for an instant, warm lips seemed to touch his own, and he was the beating of another heart within his breast and then—

The sun was shining brightly when he awoke; wind, sky and water were at peace; flowers were sending forth their sensuous odors and birds singing sweetly in the branches of the scarcely stirring trees. The world was resting after the straining throes of the earthquake birth; resting for another and more mighty effort.

From the shaken, wrecked, affrighted city, shuddering with the fear of being overtaken, all that could fly from among them was Rex Wilbur. Business no longer had shackles for him, duty no chains. In the stillness of his slumber upon the hillside had been whispered in his ears the single word "come," and nothing mortal could have kept him from obeying the spiritual summons. Thrice during the journey it was repeated—once as he started, once when midway, and again, and more forcibly and imperatively, when he finally stepped from the cars.

It was near midnight as he turned swiftly and alone toward the house of his beloved. No, not alone. By his side was a shadowy form, a whole cloud fashioned in the semblance of girlhood, with face divinely fair, hair as spun darkness powdered with star dust, and eyes that shone with dazzling, electric blue. He could feel the touch of the hand, but when he would have circled the form and drawn it to him his arm passed through as if it were but fleecy smoke or mist curling around the mountain top in the morning.

By his side the spirit form of Ada Lee floated rather than walked for a considerable distance. Then it suddenly turned aside, took another path, drifted away and was slowly dismembered and dissolved in air. He strained his eyes to follow, saw the road taken led to the graveyard, and groaned in agony of grief:

"She is dead, dead!"

Of the spirit his words could never betune. That goes back to him who gave as it has been written by a greater than that of earth; is fetterless in flight, is deathless as God, and to it will be given the likeness of angels, and the tireless wings to fly through cycle after cycle of eternity.

And it was not true of the body. For days Ada Lee had lain in a trance, icy, motionless and as if appearance soulless. Was it not so in reality? Had not the spirit passed out from matter in the search for and the saving of her lover? Ah, how little we know of the strange union, the strange separation! How very little we know until the stone is rolled away from the grave of finite matter and the light of a new glory illumines the darkness of the soul's earthly tomb!

In a trance she had been, so said physician, mother and friends. Wilbur counted back the time when her eyes had been closed to the mortal, and found it to be the very hour when the warning came to him at the wayside station. That since then her soul had been seeking for, guarding, praying for him he could not doubt, did not, did not marvel. From his eyes the scales of fate had fallen, and he was beginning to look into the beyond.

"She is not dead but sleepeth," said the physician, involuntarily quoting the holy consolation given to the mourners weeping around the daughter of Jairus.

No one present comprehended his meaning; they thought him insane from anxiety and sorrow. He regarded not their exclamations of surprise, of alarm, answered not their questions. Kneeling by the bedside he raised the head of the girl in his arms, pillowed it upon his breast, kissing the cold lips, and called her by every endearing, passionate name, to come back to him, to live, to bless.

Is love more potent than death—the spirit that the mortal? Has it power to stay the swinging gates of dissolution and turn back the soul from its heavenly flight? Can the living breathe into the dying the seeds of a new life?

Even so, it would seem. The lips of Ada Lee answered not, but a gentle warmth, a faint flush came to them, to the cheeks, to the forehead. He beat slowly the breast heaved painfully, fitfully, then more strongly; the icy marble of flesh faded away; the stiffened arms and limbs became relaxed; the glorious eyes were opened with the mist of the mortal cleared away; she saw her loved one, felt his touch, his caresses; a bright, happy smile illumined her face, and she rapturously murmured:

"Safe! God be thanked."

Then she lapsed again into insensibility. But it was not for long. Her heart strings were again anchored on earth; his were drawing her to him. The spirit was more powerful than the mortal, and before many hours had passed the reunion of the finite and infinite was perfect, and love had heard and told all.

There was no more of separation, would never be until the last, the great change, when one soul would wait for the coming of the other on the heavenly shore.

Wedded, heart-mated and soul-united, they are journeying along the pathway of life and completing its cycles. Of the mystery of the spirit they are studying, learning, but knowing that they will be revealed until they have passed behind the veil. Then all will be made plain. And the more they attempt to explore the hidden, the immaterial, the more they are convinced how infinitely small is the sum of human wisdom of things spiritual. But believing, hoping, loving, they wait, bowing to the decree that "all power is of God, and God alone."

Movements, Business, Incidents and Biographies of the Theatrical, Musical, Minstrel, Variety and Circus Professionals.

NEW YORK, JULY 26, 1887.

KANSAS.—(See Page 306.)

WICHITA.—At the Zoological Museum during the past week, "Peck's Bad Boy" and "Hidden Hand" constituted the attractions. For week of July 25, "The Quiet Family." In the curio-hall Bogartus is giving exhibitions of his skill with the rifle. The following constitute the stock company at this house: Robert A. Neff, George Berry, Frank Eby, Cal. Brown, Robert Finney, Wm. Smitzer, Susie Chase Neff, Kittle Berry and Nellie Richards. Business is good. The main street theatre presents "The Octoroon" week of 25. J. J. Lodge is managing this house, and making money. The Garfield Opera-house is dark, having disbanded its stock company. The Crawford was comfortably filled during the past week, Wilber's Comedy Co. at cheap prices, being the attraction. Haverly's Minstrels hold forth 26, and judging from present indications, a packed house will greet them. It is rumored that the management of the big street theatre will shortly change hands. The Crawford-Daisey Opera-house is rapidly nearing completion. F. K. Wallace and Hattie Pike severed their connection with the Main-street Theatre last week and are going to the Lyceum. J. J. Lodge, who has been engaged Frank Lindon for leads at the house. A commonwealth company will probably open the lanes & Young Museum next week with "Muldoo's Picnic." A rumor is abroad that the stock company had a representative in this city last week, looking up a museum location; but I failed to learn anything authentic. A. B. Gillman and wife are summing here. I am informed that Hamlet's venerable father failed to perambulate at the Garfield during the past three weeks; hence the dissatisfaction and consequent collapse.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

LACONIA.—The Wilson Day Theatre Co. did a fair business here week of July 15. Manager Ellis plays them two weeks longer, in Lake Victoria and Pittsfield. Harry English late favorite with the Mora Co., joined here. Coming: Dr. Sawtelle's St. Bernard-dog Galaxy, Aug. 1, 2, 3. Manager Ellis also plays them on his circuit. Mora opens the Winter season at Folsom Opera-house Sept. 5.

TILTON.—Day's International Theatre Co. did good business here week of July 11, under the management of J. E. Ellis. The house made his first appearance on the stage in "Fanchon," July 15, and made a hit. Dr. Sawtelle's Dogs, Aug. 4 and 5.

MASSACHUSETTS.—(See Page 309.)

BOSTON.—Only one place that is known as a legitimate theatre is at present open in the Hub. With the closing of the Bijou, the only theatre left to making changes in time to reopen the place as Keith & Batcheller's Gaiety Museum and Bijou Theatre Aug. 1, the list of places is scaled down to include the dime museums and Oakland Garden and the Boston Museum. At the latter place Corine will flash her engagement this week. "Arctide" will have been played five weeks Aug. 30. Atkinson's "Aphrodite," a renamed and revamped version of "The Tinted Venus," will be the following attraction for a couple of weeks, and then Roland Reed will be seen as Dr. Quack.

OAKLAND GARDEN.—"Olivette" was revived July 25. The people in the cast are Harry Brown, Edith Jenness, Frank Moulton, Joe Pay, Martha Porteous, Minnie De Rue and others.

AUSTIN & STONE'S MUSICALS.—This place closes after 23 for a month, in order to allow for the annual renovating. Signor Castagna's troupe of trick monkeys are the special feature this week in the curio-hall. Stage performers: Sheridan and Flynn, Burke Bros., Marvin and Whitely, Belle Fairmount, Willis Arnold, Sisters Lawtons, Wm. H. Burke, Nellie Abbott, Fanny Walker, Julia Redmond, Little Toman, Hawkins and Villion, and Evans and Al Haymes.

WORLD'S MUSKUM.—"The World's actors" this week are Joe and Annie Burgess, Virto, Delar, Walter Mack, Aggie Clayton, the Three Ellsworths, Fred Huber, Kittle Alynne and Louis Robie.

GAIRTY MUSEUM.—This week will wind up the old Gaiety in its present location. The people are: Frank Woodson, Newman and Gaylor, Lizzie Whitehall, Girard and Earle, Ed. H. Banker, J. P. Carroll, Katie Zanfretta, Wallace King and Gilbert Sarony, Tom Lewis, W. S. Carr and Kittle Kinson. McElroy's SEASIDE PAVILION.—Will J. Mack's Comedy Co. are doing "A Tin Box" this week.

FALL RIVER.—Later letter.—At the Antelope Gardens this week are the following: Prof. I. Sabon, Powers and Hall, Nellie Ives, James O'Brien and Michael Haddigan.

Aug. Daly's Co. Playing a Phenomenal Engagement at the Baldwin—"The O'Reagans" Hold a Grand Reception at the Bush—Edward Harrigan's Engagement Turning Out Big—"Held by the Enemy," "The Black Flag," "A Celebrated Case," "The Galley Slave" and "She" Attract Large Audiences.

(Special Dispatch to the New York Clipper.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.—Aug. Daly's Co. have won an artistic as well as a financial success at the Baldwin during the first two weeks of their engagement. Last evening the house was filled to the very doors to witness the presentation of "Nancy & Co." "The Taming of the Shrew" is announced for Aug. 1. The advance sale for next week is extremely large.

BUSH-STREET THEATRE.—Edward Harrigan and his company continue their successful engagement. Business last week with "Old Lavender" was large. "The O'Reagans" was put on last evening, and scored a decided hit. The audience was large and enthusiastic.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—W. H. Gillette's Co. appeared last evening in "Held by the Enemy" before a fair-sized house. The return date of this company promises well.

ALCAZAR.—E. F. Thorne opened last evening in "The Black Flag" to large business. The two weeks of "Siberia" turned out well. During the stay of "The Black Flag" the stock company will tour the interior.

BRIEF MENTION.—Al. Hayman and W. H. Gillette have secured the Eastern rights to "She," and propose to put it on in New York City. Chas. Frohman left here 25 to complete the necessary arrangements for its production. The spectacular and musical parts of the piece will be largely increased for its expected metropolitan run. It will also be done with an enlarged company and chorus. "She" is still on at the Tivoli, and is drawing big audiences. Fred W. Mills and Fields and Hanson are the late engagements at the Orpheum, where business continues large. "A Celebrated Case" was produced last evening at the Wigwam. "Michael Strogoff" did well last week at this house. Charles E. Dobson is at the Vienna Garden. Clara Beaumont opened last evening at Morosco's Amphitheatre, appearing to good advantage in "The Galley Slave."

"Welcome Little Stranger" Makes Its First American Appearance to a Large and Fashionable Audience—"Arabian Nights" Still Drawing Large Houses—Dixey Doing Fairly Well—Other Openings.

(Special Dispatch to the New York Clipper.)

CHICAGO, Ill.—July 26.—Henry Arthur Jones' new farce-comedy, "Welcome Little Stranger," was presented for the first time on any stage to an ultra-fashionable audience that more than filled McVicker's. The plot: Dr. Septimus Twentyman runs a boarding-school, and his nephew, Henry Twentyman, sends a telegram telling the Doctor that his wife and baby are coming; pupils confiscate the telegram, and the mother and baby arrive while the doctor and his wife were away, and upon the Doctor's return to the school the girls taunt him with being the father of the child. When his wife returns she creates a scene, and the Doctor tries to unload the girl and baby on his cousin, Christopher Twentyman, when Henry arrives to untangle the snarl and claim his family. Many amusing situations follow each other so rapidly that the audience is kept constantly laughing. Though the plot resembles "Confusion," as a whole the play was a success, if somewhat broad in spots. The cast was: Dr. Septimus Twentyman, proprietor of a boarding-school at Piper's Heath, J. H. Stoddard; Henry Twentyman, his nephew, a young barrister, L. F. Massen; Christopher Twentyman, his cousin, an old bachelor, E. M. Holland; Dr. Sparrow, village physician, Harry Edwards; Mr. Bullwinkle, pickle manufacturer, C. P. Flockton; Mr. Gorringer, starch manufacturer, Wm. Davidge; Edward Wilberforce, Bob Spicer, pupils at Piper's Heath, Marie Greenwald and Hattie Harvey; Mr. Duckworth, assistant-master at Piper's Heath, Walden Ramsay; Dabba, footman at Piper's Heath, H. J. Holliday; Cabman, H. S. Millward; Diana Twentyman, Dr. Septimus' wife, Mrs. E. J. Phillips; Aris, his niece, Annie Russell; Susan, his servant, Maud Harrison; Mrs. Goby, a professional nurse, Virginia Buchanan; Mrs. Bullwinkle, wife of Mr. Bullwinkle, May Brooklyn; "Klaine" will follow. At the Chicago Opera-house, "Arabian Nights" continues to "Standing-room Only." Dixey's "Adonia" had a fair patronage at Hooley's. The Columbia is closed. Manager Geo. Morris denies the report telegraphed from New York that Chas. O. White has the Standard. He says he offered the lease to Mr. White, but Mr. W. didn't accept it, and the deal fell through. At Epstean's Museum this week: Murray & Gray's Comedy Co., Frank Green, John W. Harrington and new wax groups. At Kohl & Middleton's Museum: The Fiji cannibals, Capt. Chittenden, M. Huber, Hattie De Gerry and Crosby & Wray.

— Business-manager Lambert of the New Grand Central Theatre, Buffalo, N. Y., has been in the city of late.
— Duncan B. Harrison and W. J. Scanlan are to arrange their dispute as to the ownership of "My Geraldine," which Mr. S. claims.
— Francis B. Wilson says that Edwin Booth recently reiterated his intention to bequeath his large and valuable library to the dramatic profession.
— Manager H. C. Shaw of the Bijou Opera-house, Pittsburg, Pa., was in the city last week.
— Clementine Vaughn and her niece, Gracie, are resting at West New Brighton, S. L., where, Miss Laughlin says, there is no noise, no smoke, no soot, as "lying in a hammock on a nice cool piazza, and CLIPPING in hand, being transported all over the theatrical world."
— Floy Crowell is perfecting herself in the use of the piano, which will be a feature of her entertainments the coming season.
— C. W. Durant and A. C. Pond are in Europe.
— Manager Daniel Frohman spends three or four days of the week at Stamford, Ct.
— J. A. Mackay is E. F. Thorne's guest at Long Branch, N. J.
— De Wolf Hopper has been Bostonward of late.
— Harry Mann, while in England, purchased a one-act farce called "The Tatler," by Conrad Jordan, which he intends to have elaborated into a three-act comedy for Evans and Hoey. He also arranged with Charles Overton to place "A Parlor Match" in England. Mr. Evans remains on the other side until Aug. 3.
— The Lizzie Evans Co. will commence rehearsals at Asbury Park, N. J., Aug. 3. The regular season opens in Cincinnati Aug. 30, but preliminary performances are to be given at Asbury Park 12 and 14, and at Niagara Falls 15. Miss Evans will have two singing comedians this season—Steve Corey and Charles Warren. She will appear mainly in her new comedy by Ed. J. Swartz, "Our Angel."
— Manager E. P. Simpson is occupying his Summer leisure as traveling-representative of the Globe Theatrical Printing Co.
— W. L. Woodson and wife and Howard Tills have signed with Dominick Murray, H. Allyn, Mr. Murray's leading-man, sailed for England July 23, and will return with Florence Wade Sept. 3.

STAGE FACT & LYRIC FANCY.

This is a good likeness of Barney Fagan, the minstrel. He was born in Boston, Mass., Jan. 10, 1857, and at the Howard Athenaeum in that city, in 1864, he made his first appearance on the stage, playing in "The Lottery of Life" and "Under the Gaslight," doing solo-clog and boy parts.

He was first engaged as a specialty performer at the old Adelphi Theatre, Boston, by Jason Wentworth, in 1868. Afterwards he played at Fox's, in Philadelphia, in 1870, as Master William. With Pete Lee he traveled through the British Provinces in 1871. Later in the same year he joined Buckley's Minstrels at Beethoven Hall, Boston. In 1872 he was with John Stetson in burlesque and on the road. In 1873 he created and introduced a new style of dance, now done by all American clog-dancers. As Fagan and Fenton, the original "American Lads," he and another played the principal New York houses with remarkable success. In 1875, with Mile. Morlachi, he toured the far West in the leading roles of her repertory, and in the same year he joined the "Evangeline" Co. In 1879 he became a member of Barlow, Wilson, Primrose & West's Minstrels, as premier-dancer and "producer," and while in that capacity he brought out in rapid succession many sterling novelties. It was at that time that he also acquired the reputation of being the best general dancer in the minstrel business. The coming season he will devote his attention to middle business and the production of novelties for Sweetman, Rice & Fagan's Minstrels.

SARAH BERNHARDT has given the theatrical gossip fresh life by announcing that after this season she will never again play the role of Adrienne Lecouvreur. This news will strike Americans with conspicuous regret, for it was as Adrienne that Bernhardt made her debut in this country at Booth's Theatre, this city, Nov. 6, 1880.

An earnest and careful little actress is pictured on THE CLIPPER'S first page this week. Eugenia Marguerite Yeamans was born in Sydney, N. S. W., Oct. 16, 1862. Her parents—Mrs. Annie Yeamans and Mr. Yeamans, the latter an Australian and Californian circus-manager and proprietor—took her, while yet an infant, with them to China, Java and Japan, on a professional tour with G. W. B. Lewis, now a manager in Melbourne, and she came to San Francisco, California, in 1865, her first appearance on any stage being at Charles Wheatleigh's Eureka Theatre in that city, at her mother's benefit, in the farce of "To Parents and Guardians," as Master Charles Waddellow Jr., her mother also playing in the piece. They left California and came to New York in 1866. Jennie Yeamans first appeared in this vicinity at the late Mrs. F. B. Conway's Brooklyn Park Theatre. At the age of six she played child-parts with E. L. Davenport's Co., and from that time out had the preference of engagements where child-actresses were in demand. Among her roles were the Little Prince in "Richard III," Mary Morgan, Eva and similar child-characters, and at seven years of age she was capable of playing Puck in "A Midsummer Night's Dream." She was among the first of the child singers in character, and sang so in John Broughman's "Lottery of Life" in the concert scene. George L. Fox, hearing of her precocity, engaged her for the Olympic Theatre, Broadway, for two years, where she became popular, and many can still remember her as The Girl of the Period in "Humpty Dumpty," Francois in G. L. Fox's burlesque of "Richelieu," Slinkid in "Jack Sheppard" and in the child-characters of Lucille Western's plays. When the season closed she was engaged by Aug. Daly at the Grand Opera-house, to play in "Under the Gaslight" and "Round the Clock," and also at the old Fifth-avenue Theatre in "The Merry Wives of Windsor." The following season she went to the Theatre Comique, where she appeared in her specialties, and starred in the pieces produced. She made a hit in John F. Poe's "Italian Padrone," playing Marie, "The Slave of the Harp," and Dollie in "Chicago." Her last engagement with G. L. Fox was in the traveling company under the management of Geo. H. Tyler, where she did the Good Fairy. Her voice beginning to fail, her mother deemed it judicious to take her from the stage, and she remained off for three years, attending school in the interim. The next time she appeared was at the Philadelphia Arch-street Theatre as Topsy in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," and after that in the spectacle of "Ahmed" and as Little Buttercup in "H. M. S. Pinafore." Afterwards she visited Havana with her mother, was engaged by the Orrin Brothers for their theatre there, and on her return was for a time at Niblo's. Her English debut was made May 28, 1883, at the Prince's Theatre, Manchester, with Atkinson's "Jollities" Co. Of late seasons she has traveled with M. B. Curtis (creating Rebecca in "Sam'l o' Posen"), with Hoyt's "Rag Baby" Co. (in which she was the original Venus), with Evans & Hoey's "Parlor Match" Co. (in which she was the original Innocent Kidd), and with Lester & Williams "Parlor Match" Co. Two of her sisters—Lydia and Emily—are on the stage.

According to the observations of our correspondents, it requires the concession by local managers of a third larger percentage than was granted last season to induce troupes to travel far West next Fall and Winter. This is all glibly State Commerce Law work.

Here is a suggestion about an engraving topic of the hour. Agent F. B. Colville sends it, and we print it because he is palpably in earnest. "See," he says, "that a few of the prominent Eastern managers have subscribed $5,000 to make a test case of the Inter-State Law. Now, would it not be a better scheme for every member of the profession (male and female) to contribute his or her mite, from two dollars up, and send some of our railroad contracting-agents to the different Legislatures this Winter? There they could make a strong fight for two cents a mile and an allowance of 250 pounds of baggage to everybody. I think the commercial men would take hold and help us out, if we should make a strong fight. Beyond a doubt, we would gain more in this way than by a test case of the Inter-State Law. Some of the leading papers of Iowa have already made this an issue, and refuse to support any candidate who will not pledge himself for a two-cent rate. There are a number of circus agents, unemployed during the Winter, who could do good in the lobby, and, I think, get all privileges the traveling managers could require."

ALEX. COMSTOCK is jealous of his glory. He writes us that nobody shared his losses on the Ocean Circuit. He suffered all and alone. We tender him, accordingly, the assurance of our deepest and most undivided consolation.

ELLEN TERRY is approaching plumpness, according to some of the London letter-writers. Her arms are said to be round and pink, and her neck to have foreworn hollows. All the "fat" was not in the Lyceum's "Olivia," after all.

FOREIGN.

THE moral of the recent catastrophes in Paris and London is fully recognized by the Italian Government. It has issued a circular providing for the closing of places of amusement which cannot be made safe, and designating needed reforms in the construction of theatres. Among other requirements are: The stairs must be of stone; there must be a separate exit for performers; doors must all open outward; the pit must be on a level with the street; the building must be entirely isolated and there must be exits on each side into a street. The isolation of a theatre by furnishing facilities for exits on four sides will be an effective expedient for promoting the safety of audiences.

HELEN C. PARK is acting at the Surrey Theatre, London, Eng., for the summer.

THE last performance at the Court Theatre, London, given July 22, when one act each from "The Schoolmistress," "Dandy Dick" and "The Magistrate" was played. There was a large house. On 25 the demolition of the theatre commences. The partnership between John Clayton and Arthur Cecil expires, Mr. Clayton carrying on the business in the future. In a speech before the curtain the latter said April next would find him at the head of a new theatre near his old one.

RALPH and CARTON, the authors of "The Great Pink Pearl," have completed a play called "The Point of View," which has been secured for the opening of the Autumn season at the Olympic Theatre, London.

"THE BELLS OF HASLEMERE," Pettit and Grundy's new drama, will probably be produced July 25 in London. The first two and fourth acts are laid in England, the third in America. Wm. Terriss and Jessie Millward are the hero and heroine.

NELSON DECKER sailed during last week for Australia, to produce "Held by the Enemy" under the management of Brough & Boucault.

HARVEY JAY will open her season at the Novelty Theatre, London, with "Fascination," by Robert Buchanan. Henry Neville has been engaged for the leading part.

THE three Italian opera companies in London at the moment are each having a complete and emphatic financial failure. Mr. Harris, at Burglaine, fared the worst from a monetary point of view, and he probably lost £15,000 clear cash. Sig. Lago, at Covent Garden, with a mediocre company, also lost a fair amount of money. Mr. Mapleson, who flattered out twice in the season, is in debt to all his artists, very few, if any of whom, have been paid, except an occasional pound or two.

THE Victoria Concert Hall Co. (limited), with a capital of £100,000, in 20,000 shares of £5 each, has been formed for the purpose of acquiring the site now occupied in Langham place, London, by the Portland Hall Bazar, the St. George's Hall, and adjacent property, for the purpose of building thereon a concert hall which is to afford seating accommodation for 3,500 persons. The orchestra is to hold 200 performers.

THE finale of the Capoul-Stoullig difficulty, an account of which appeared in these columns some time ago, was enacted in the Paris Correctionnelle. The magistrate sentenced the tenor to undergo a year in prison and pay a fine of five francs.

PREPARATIONS are making in Vienna to bring out in the Autumn a hitherto unknown opera by Wagner, called "The Furies." It is a work of his youth, and is said to be very vigorous and sensational in parts, but uneven. A juvenile symphony of his of the same period and having many of the same faults, was recently produced in Germany for the first time. It will be given by George Henschel in his next series of symphony concerts in London.

THEATRICAL MANAGERS—English, German and American—are clamoring to learn that Mr. Abbey and Mr. Grau have snatched from them the musical phenomenon Joseph Hoffmann. The child pianist will commence his tour of America in November.

THE announcement that the Mme. Dotti known to the American audiences was about to sing in Italy was unfounded. The Mme. Dotti that is now at Foggia is an Italian songstress of some repute, and in no way related to the American soprano.

THE Eden Theatre in Paris is to be opened as an opera-comique theatre in September under the management of Eugene Bertrand. The repertoire will include works, the copyright of which has expired, and new works by modern composers. Two galleries are to be added to the auditorium as it now stands; outside balconies are to be built corresponding with each floor and connected by stairways; the abominations of Paris theatres—the stinks, of seats extending across the aisles—are to be abolished; an iron curtain will be in readiness to separate the stage from the house, and all the scenery will be soaked in a fluid insuring its combustibility.

IN the new Hofburg Theatre, now building in Vienna, special lights lead to the different orders of seats. Electric lights only will be used, candles, and not gas, being resorted to in case of accident. The stage (except the footlights) and its machinery are of steel and stone, and the former is supplied with two metallic curtains, one of which divides it into two parts and extends from the footlights to the rear wall, while the other falls behind the conventional drop. The second curtain is made by two sheets of iron, and as it is lowered the space between the two sheets will be filled with water. All the scenery is to be impregnated with a fluid that will render it incombustible, and only the sets of scenery actually in use will be kept in the building while performances are in progress.

MRS. SCALCHI, now in London, goes to Lisbon for the Fall season of opera at the St. Carlo Theatre.

GIANNI DONIZETTI, the last surviving nephew of the composer, died lately at Bergamo.

A MONUMENT to Joseph Haydn has been erected on the square facing the Mariathienkirche, in Vienna. The pedestal, that rises above it, is worthy the statue that faces above it. The inscription lists have been opened with a view to erecting a similar monument to Mozart, but the public at last accounts showed little anxiety to contribute to the fund, and there was some likelihood that the project would be abandoned.

SIO. RAVELLI has apparently met with little success in South America, for telegrams have been received in Italy summoning other artists to La Plata.

As the South American impresario this season is no less a person than the tenor Stagno, whose fondness for damaging the reputation of his rivals—even when they are under engagement to him—is widely known, it is inferred that he has done his best to make Ravelli unpopular.

THE personnel of the Imperial Theatre in St. Petersburg included 100 employees, of whom 800 are singers, 100 chorists and 400 Russian, German and French actors, actresses and singers.

ACCORDING to The Treatise, the renowned double-bass virtuoso Bottesini has been engaged by Mr. Abbey for an American concert tour.

SIO. GIANNINI sings next season in Havana and in Mexico.

THE diminutive tenor, Lazzarini, who sang in this country some years ago, is now deluging Australian audiences.

THE newest opera brought forth in Italy is a three-act setting of Metastasio's "Colomba," which had already supplied Gounod with a libretto—by V. Radeglia. "Colomba" was produced at the Dal Verme Theatre in Milan, and was not successful.

SIO. RAVELLI, the composer, is only twenty-two years of age.

THE case of Mr. Garland vs. the American Exhibition, to restrain Buffalo Bill's performances, was set down for a hearing in London, Eng., for July 15, but was postponed for a week to allow new testimony to be filed. Buck Taylor has so far recovered from his injuries that he is able to go about on crutches. He will resume his position with the Wild West some time next month.

"HELD BY THE ENEMY" celebrated its one-hundredth English performance July 16, at the Vaudeville Theatre, London.

"LA VITA PER LA CZAR," a celebrated Russian opera, was sung July 12 in London at Covent Garden. It was done in Italian, and is the first record performance in England of Michele Glinka's opera. Albani and Scatchi appeared in the cast.

VARIETY AND MINSTREL.

HEN. ALLEN, manager of the Electric Concert Co., informs us of the illness of George Devere, his partner, who recently underwent an operation. They reopen Aug. 2 at Posttown, Pa.

FRANK M. HAYDEN and Frank E. Edwards have formed a partnership, and will be known as Hayden and Edwards. They are resting at Dayton, O., preparatory to coming East with a minstrel company. MORRIS' ORCHESTRA of the New Buckingham Theatre, Louisville, Ky., are playing at the Crab Orchard Springs, Ky., for the summer.

MCKISSON and CRAWFORD, Harry Armstrong, Charles Fostelle and Manning and Drew are engaged for Sweetham, Rice & Fagan's Minstrels.

ANNIE RAYMOND of the Odeon Theatre, Baltimore, Md., paid a flying visit to her mother last week at Fair View, N. J. She is re-engaged at the Odeon, as she writes us.

CHARLES M. WELCH benefited at the Grand Opera-house, Detroit, Mich., July 20.

JOHN C. GRAUS of St. Paul, Minn., has been in the city of late, as the guest of J. Carroll Johnson.

IT IS F. L. COCHRAN, not COCKRAN, who is interested with J. C. Hopkins in the proprietorship of the Theatre Comique, St. Louis, Mo.

FRANK SHARPLEY has taken leave of absence, of his dogs, and is summing about the Oskills. Chas. West is passing the summer at his villa on Orchard street, this city, occasionally taking the two minutes to Fourteenth street near the "fountain in the park," for an airing.

HI HENRY has written a play for Tom English, and it is likely to have a hearing next season. Mr. English as been in HI Henry's Co. for the past seven years, and it is thought he will develop as a comedian of mark.

JOHN A. LOVELY of Cooper and Lovely is summing at George Coffey's cottage.

BERT KIMBALL, ventriloquist, has closed season with Wilson's All-Star Minstrels, and is summing at Morris, N. Y. He rejoins the company Sept. 1. R. H. HAWLEY (with a wife) and Wm. H. HAWLEY are for the coming season with Andrews' "Michael Strogoff" Co.

RICK BROS., who have just closed with Barrett's Circus, will rest at Greenwich, N. Y., until Sept. 5, when they will join Gus and John's Minstrels.

ADVANCE-AGENT LEE, of Johnson's Minstrels, claims that his company, and not A. R. Wilber's Madison-square Co., were the first to do the C. P. R. route. He asserts that he preceded Mr. Wilber a week, starting from the Pacific.

EMERSON and CLARK do not appear in any theatre in St. Louis, Mo., last week, although billed at one of the houses there. They played Detroit, Mich., last week.

FREDERICK ROSS, said to be a song-and-dance man, is held for examination at Coney Island on a charge of larceny.

A NOTE from Louisville, Ky., informs us of the marriage, June 21, of George W. Maurer to Ida M. Maurer. Mr. and Mrs. M. will take the road in the Fall.

THE Tissots were lately doing well at the Alhambra and Royal Music-halls, London, Eng., at latest accounts. There is a good chance that they will travel with the Mrs. Gen. Tom Thumb Co.

THE unfortunate of the Alcazar Theatre, holo-caust at Hurley, Wis., was Sadie Wells, wife of Billy O'Day. Mr. O'Day writes us as follows: "After the fire had started—at the Post-office—my wife went to her room in the theatre and tried to save her clothes. The flames caught her garments, and she was burned to death. I was in the theatre and she went out to post our letters, and while away, and before I could get back, the theatre was burned to the ground. That was the last day of my dear wife. My own wardrobe is a total loss."

FREDERICK QUINN has been engaged for Dockstader's Minstrels.

AT LITT'S Academy of Music, Milwaukee, Wis., Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels are making active preparations for their opening, July 30. Their new first-part is not alone original and novel, but the unique and elegant way of presentation will catch the audiences everywhere. Their programme will embrace many features new to minstrelsy, produced with the customary carefulness. The paper issued, lithographs and posters, and the talk of the town, and the indications point to an opening of these popular amusement entertainers.

"THE NIGHT OWLS" are resting now, prior to the opening of the coming season, in this city, Sept. 2. The new company embraces all the old favorites: Louise Dempsey, Pauline Batcheller, Mary Howard, Delair and Delinwood, Brown and Jutan, Manchester and Jennings, Mulvey and Clifton, Harry Morris, Irwin T. Bush, Sadie Lane, Hattie Pond, Nettie Scott, Louise Huse, Miss. Malta, Lottie Forbes, Jennie Huse, Renie, and the Star and John Dunn. The executive staff, with Manchester & Daniels as proprietors, is: Robert Manchester, manager; B. S. Hodges, agent; Robert Fulton, treasurer, and Prof. A. J. Stomberg, leader of orchestra.

MRS. MARY FABER, wife of the inventor of the talking-machine, poisoned herself July 23 with Paris green at her lodgings, 207 East Twenty-fifth street, this city. She was taken to Bellevue Hospital, where she died 24. For the past year she had been separated from her husband, and is said she leaves $20,000, though she had taken in sewing of late.

HARRY MORRIS and wife of "The Night Owls" are spending a part of their vacation among relatives at Woodlawn Park, Ill. They go to Janesville, O., in the latter part of August as guests of Manager Robert Manchester.

DAN COLLYER of Edward Harrigan's Co., who has created such a favorable impression with the people of "Prisco," returns to the London Theatre next season as comedian. He will head a company for a short road trip, going out under the management of James Donahoe.

ADD WEAVER was married in this city July 22 to Mrs. Abigail F. Harris, one of the Leighton heirs, and proprietress of Newman Springs, a Summer resort. Mr. and Mrs. W. will spend their honeymoon at the Madison House, Newman Springs.

THE PERKY BROS. of Los Angeles, Cal., are due East soon.

WM. GARDEN, manager of Topack, Steel & John son's Co., was in the city July 25, the five weeks' season of his party having closed 23 at Cobeco, N. Y. Mr. Garden will now get ready for Frances Bishop's tour, which opens Sept. 12 at Toronto, Ont. Topack and Steel will join Harry Williams about Oct. 15.

CHARLES and JENNIE WELSH are at Lima, O., visiting friends. They open their Fall season in the East.

COLORADO.

LEADVILLE.—Business is good at Laura Le Clair's Theatre. The following are the operators: Annie Pettie and Susie Stokes, Wm. Devore, the Buffalo Trio, W. A. Mason, Terry Ferguson, Maggie Le Clair, Pearl Ardine, Lottie Roger, Dollie Emerson, Eddie Fox, Leo Eddys and Zarena Lilly.

GOLDEN.—The Grand Theatre, The Tutors, John Martell and Harry Devore, Bird Herne, Ella Howard, Lillie Forrest, Minnie Lamont, Alice Hamilton, Nellie Neville, Stella Anders, Jessie White, Maggie Le Clair, Billy Doyle, the Williams Sisters, Bert Stanley and Gus Pixley, and Chas. and Lottie Fremont.

HEX LON'S.—The Derville Family, the Lamonts, Jack Francis, Dud Rilla, Harry Conway, Jack Bruce, Tom Fields and Geo. Peters, Ollie Hart and Lorenzo.

STRONG-BOY JONES. a local aspirant for fame, has placed a forfeit of ten dollars in the hands of Chas. Reynolds to dance Eddie Fox, for $150.

DEVIL.—The season at the Tabor Grand Opera-house was closed by Aug. Daly's Co., who gave three performances to crowded houses. The theatre will be opened Aug. 15, by Gillette's "Held by the Enemy" with the following cast:—

MAMMOTH RINK.—Adelaide Randall's Bijou Opera Co. are playing to good business.

MUSIC HALL.—Jack Burke and Paddy Carroll July 15 and 16; Prof. McKinnon's Colored Specialty Co. 21. The Palace Theatre is giving a good variety performance with Jennie Lindley, Ida Bertha, Annie Raynor, Maggie Meredith, Lizzie Davis, Clara Edwards, Millanet, John H. Mack, Ed. Kelly, Geo. Shelwood, Alf. Gibson, Mike Crimmins, John St. Leon and Nola Forrest.

NEBRASKA.

LINCOLN.—At Funke's the coming attractions are Mrs. Langtry July 28, Haverly's Minstrels Aug. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31. The People's opera early in September. Considerable complaint is being made by opera-house managers of the Western circuits of the ill effects of the L. S. C. Co., owing to the managers of traveling companies wanting to get away from the percentage that they last season, and which opera-house managers can hardly afford. Ed. A. Church, formerly manager of the Funke, but late of Birmingham, Ala., has removed to Lincoln. It is rumored that he will build a theatre here soon.

OREGON.

PORTLAND.—The Pyke Opera Co., with Jennie Winston and Louise Maunier as prima-donnas, opened at the Casino Opera-house July 11, to excellent business, and have had a most successful run ever since. Their engagement is for two weeks, after which they will make a tour through the larger towns in Oregon, outside of Portland, for three weeks longer. At the New Market Theatre, the New York Philharmonic Club to good business 13-16. They went from here to Seattle and Victoria, and thence to San Francisco. At present the outlook for the coming attractions is rather uncertain, and, therefore, managers are loath to give any advance dates. The Tivoli will again be opened in September by its former manager, Richard Clinton, with variety people.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.—The people at the Bijou are well were: Annie Donovan, Annie Sanford, Geo. Kidd, Jas. T. Kelly, Violet and Redmond, Minnie Bickett, May Lewis, Cort and Brannigan, Louie Baker, Emma Hull, Maurerettus and Odell, Jas. Allicote, C. B. Nelson, etc.

NEW BRUNSWICK.

ST. JOHN.—Sol Smith Russell in "Edgewood Folks" July 25, 26, 27. On the same dates, at Century Church, the Oratorio Society, assisted by the Listerman Concert Co., including Fanny Kellogg, in "The Creation" and "St. Paul." Company in concert programme at Institute matinee 26, 27. T. W. Keene closed season here 21 in "Richelleu" with A. J. Glazebrook, a local amateur, as De Mauprat. Business was good, but Mr. Glazebrook did not stretch the cast to any appreciable degree. T. Morley, late of London, Eng., has been engaged as organist of the Mission Church.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

WASHINGTON.—At Kernan's Theatre and Garden last week, "Patience" was presented to good business. This week, Lillie Weber's Burlesque Co. in conjunction with the Grivies Opera Co. "Black-eyed Susan" is the bill. After the theatre performance the usual olio will be done in the Garden. W. H. Fitzgerald's Opera Co. do not return here, as was understood. Ridge Waller, treasurer of Kernan's Theatre, has put his leisure moments into play-writing. His last work, "Hunks of Dan Mr.," was secured by Cryptic Palmont for the coming season. I think he is anticipating the road next Winter.

WYOMING TERRITORY.

SEATTLE.—The Daniel Sully Co. appeared here July 11, in "Daddy Nolan," before a large audience and made quite a hit. They gave "The Corner Grocery" 12. The Seattle Bijou Theatre, under the management of J. W. Smith, is still playing to good houses, and, owing to Mr. Smith's active management, a new and good list of attractions is generally to be found there. Afternoon of 12 there was a game of baseball between the Seattle Reds and a picked nine from the Bijou and Daniel Sully companies, and, as the Seattle Reds are the best nine in the Territory and the picked nine have two players from the Daniel Sully Co., comprising a battery who once stood high in baseball circles, a good game is looked for. The New York Philharmonic Club gave another concert here 12 at the Turnverein Hall. Geo. C. Miln, on 15, 16, with matinee 16, was the Opera-house, Geo. F. Fry, manager of the Opera-house, has been successful in getting a large number of first-class attractions this season, and the people have shown their appreciation of the same by giving good and crowded houses.

KANSAS.

ATCHISON.—At Price's Opera-house, Haverly's Minstrels come July 30, this being the first minstrel show here in a year. They will probably do good business. Eunice Goodrich's Co. will come Aug. 8 and week 10. Haverly's Minstrels will give "Rudyard Kipling's" soon. A new club started here had the gall to name itself "The Elks," when not one of the members belongs to the order. Manager Martling is in Topeka this week.

LEAVENWORTH.—Amusements are very quiet here. Haverly's Minstrels are billed for Aug. 1, and, as it is Emancipation-day, there will be undoubtedly a packed house. Coups's Equestrianism, which was billed July 25 and week, held out another week at Kansas City, and will be here Aug. 1 and week. Chas. P. Elliott, manager of Crawford's, will leave as advance for Mr. Comp and return in September.

CONNECTICUT.

BRIDGEPORT.—At Wagner's Garden, Duncan Clark's Co. furnished an excellent bill last week. This week he has new faces and a different entertainment. Specialties are given by Mollie Wilson, the Shepherd Sisters, McCoy and McAvoy, Lew Baker, Harry West, John R. Hart, Mlle. Barretta and Chas. McCoskey, with additional people for the burlesque. As to business, Mr. Clark said he was satisfied, and, if he is, Manager Jennings must be.

SCITTE'S GARDEN.—Due 25-30: The Healy's, Frank Lester, Allie Alden, Maggie Hammond, Blanche Austin, Nellie Whitting and Billy Williams.

NOTES.—Prof. Ralph Mazzotta is re-engaged with the Howard Athenaeum. Chas. P. Elliott is re-engaged with "Lost in London." L. M. Rich is engaged for the opening week of "Lost in London." He does his Palestine specialty. Mr. Coles has re-engaged R. G. Knowles, and he will again manage the stage. H. H. Jennings has been engaged as stage manager at Theatre Bell, near the coming season. Tony Hart was here last week. Wood and Healy go home this week for a short rest, and rejoin Duncan Clark Aug. 1 at the London, New York. They are re-engaged for next season by Mr. C.

WATERBURY.—Irwin Bros.' Show will be here July 28, 29, 30, instead of 20 and 21 as stated last week.

I was misinformed about date. Manager Jacques returns from a trip to Canada this week.

MONTANA.

BUTTE.—Maguire's Comedy Co. did an average business at the Grand week of July 11-14. They played "Claire and the Forge-master," "The Planter's Wife," "Led Astray" and "Saratoa." They produced "Lights of London" 18-23 to good business, having opened to "Standing room" 14. They give way to the New York Philharmonic Club 25, which two nights they play at Anconada, and return to the Grand to fill the remainder of the week. Manager Maguire was laid up several days, the current month from affection of the kidneys, from which he has been ailing, but neglecting, for some two years. Until becoming prostrated no one knew his condition. He underwent an operation for his trouble a few days ago, and is much improved at this time—so much so as to be out attending to business again. Mrs. Sam Thall and baby, wife and son to the genial Sam, the efficient and hard-working advance-agent of Maguire's Co., is visiting her husband here. At the Theatre Comique, there were no special attractions last week, but Harry Montgomery, Garfield Duncan and Mamie Dampierre are announced for 25.

HELENA.—At the Coliseum Theatre recently: Geo. Clayton, Josie Forrester, Billy Mack, Della Wall, George Arthur, Leaton Sisters, Lottie Wallace, Florence Handford, Edith Valentine, King Kalkas, Boyd and Hoes, Nettie Holland, May Miller, Ed. Sylvino, Ollie Sutter, etc.

CALIFORNIA.

LOS ANGELES.—At the Grand, Mrs. Langtry in "A Wife's Peril" July 11 and 12, "Lady of Lyons" 12, "She Stoops to Conquer" 13, "Lady Clancarty" and "Pygmalion and Galatea" 15 and 16 were the attractions. The company is fair only, but, as this was Mrs. Langtry's first appearance here, business was large. W. J. Gilmore's "Devil's Auction" opens 18 for one week. The Jaguarine McAllister Co. played 14, 15 at Hazard's Pavilion to fair houses. J. P. Reynolds, business-agent for Mrs. Langtry, left last week for New York, after a short sojourn here.

KENTUCKY.

LOUISVILLE.—Harris' Theatre enjoyed very liberal patronage last week in the production of "Rags," with Hattie Bernard Chase in the title-role. This charming actress has been booked for another week, and will produce two pieces—17, 18, 19, "Our Mutual Friend," Men 20, 21, 22, "Reddy the Tomboy," S. H. Friedlander has the charge of P. Harris' interests during the absence of R. C. Britton, manager. Kate Stranas is endeavoring to have a week of light operas in the near future, provided the required guarantee is forthcoming.

At Harris' Theatre week of July 25, Lottie Church in "The Sea of Ice," "Our Railroad Men" was produced the first three nights of last week, and "Reddy the Tomboy" the latter part, to good business. Annie Speicher, a Louisville miss of fourteen, pretty and full of chic, made her first appearance 21 with this company, acting the part of "O boy," most effectively in "Reddy the Tomboy."

The Musical Club of this city, composed principally of local talent, will give a concert 26 at Phoenix Hill Park. The principal feature of the entertainment will be the first appearance in public of Al. Schlick since his return from Italy, where he has been studying for the operatic stage. R. L. Britton, manager of Harris' Theatre, returned last week from a pleasure trip. Col. R. Dingess, agent of Forepaugh's Show, is in the city arranging for that attraction to play 18, 19. Blanche Holtheide of this city left last week for New York to prepare herself for the professional stage. Chas. W. Chase is now writing a play for her. She is said to be a fine dancer and banjo-player, and expects to throw in some satisfactory subretrie work.

OWENSBORO.—Clint G. Ford of this city, formerly manager of Ford's Dramatic Co. and Ford's "Monte Cristo" Co., has signed for the coming season with the Belle Gilbert Comedy Co. as comedian. Nellie Free, the subretrie who made such a hit here last season, will make a specialty of "O boy Sahara" the coming season. Frank E. Dumm, the author, will do the leading comedy. Miss Free is probably the youngest subretrie on the road.

IOWA.

OTTUMWA.—The encampment of the First Brigade, Iowa National Guard, will be held in this city Aug. 8-12. The following week will occur the Watloo County Fair. Attractions during that period will be numerous. The Ottumwa Dramatic Club, under the direction of W. C. Robyns, will present "Queen's Evidence" Aug. 10, and "Col. Mulberry Sellers" at the Lewis Dr. 13 and 4. Dr. W. Carroll's Illuminated Tour of the Rocky Mountains. At the Turner, Aug. 14-19, Warren Noble's Dramatic Co. Sells Bros.' Circus attracted an immense crowd July 11.

SIoux CITY.—S. H. Barrett's United States Show came July 16, but, owing to the very threatening condition of the weather, the tents were only comfortably well filled. Eunice Goodrich's Co. 25 and week, at low prices. Everything progresses finely at the Pearl-street Theatre. The house is being greatly enlarged, newly-frescoed, etc., and, rapidly being put into shape for the opening, which is to occur about Aug. 20. There is big money in this house for a live man.

ALBIA.—Mellissa Breslin in "Diamond Cut Diamond" is booked for Aug. 23, 24, 25 and 26—four week. Manager Sam T. Shaw arrived from the East July 15 on his summer vacation, and is busily engaged filling time for his new cyclorama of "The Paradise Lost," which opens season Sept. 1.

FORT MADISON.—Bennett's Opera-house is now having a new front put on. The seating capacity will be increased to one thousand, and the entire interior remodeled. A number of first-class attractions are booked for next season.

DOKOTA.

FAIRO.—At the Opera-house, the Bessie Gee Novelty Co. appeared July 16, to a small house. Rhea will play a return engagement 22, opening in "Pygmalion and Galatea" for the matinee and "The Widow" in the evening, followed by the Spanish Troubadours 23, after which the house will be closed for a month for improvements.

COLISEUM THEATRE.—The following were here last week: Frank Foster, Jessie Fowler, James Fitz, John Guerin, W. H. Davenport, Vernie Vaders and Blanche Granger.

HUBON.—The Culprit Fay and Lillie Bell entertainments at the Grand were well patronized, and gave excellent satisfaction. The "Puck" Opera Co. (Calburt & Cassidy, proprietors) did good business at the Grand July 16-18. "The Hebrew Drummer" was especially well received.

MANITOBA.

WINNIPEG.—S. H. Barrett's Circus is billed for Aug. 9-12. At the Madison-square Club he is playing along the line of the C. P. R. and will proceed through to the Pacific coast, returning by the same route.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

VICTORIA.—Coming: G. C. Miln July 18, 19, 20. New York Philharmonic Club gave two concerts 11, 13. Business was light. Daniel Sully did good business 14, 15, 16, in "Daddy Nolan" and "The Corner Grocery."

MASSACHUSETTS.

SPRINGFIELD.—This has been the worst show week that we have had for a long time. It has rained most of the time. Yet, in the face of all this, the California Minstrels have drawn good business at the Springfield Musee. Week of July 25 a comedy company will hold the boards. Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels will open the season at Gilmore's Opera-house about the middle of August.

FALL RIVER.—The Academy of Music is being refitted with new scenery and stage settings. St. George's Concert-hall has been well patronized. Mlle. Bessie opens here July 25. Wilton and Neilson remain one week longer, and so do Miss Follitt, John Saxon, J. Cooper and Harry Green.

WORCESTER.—Nothing is doing here, nor will we have any attraction until Aug. 18, when Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels open our season, as they have for several years past.

WISCONSIN.

MILWAUKEE.—Hermann & Bauer's Opera Co., including John Rowson, Harry De Lorme and Helene Von Denhoff open a week's engagement at Schiltz Park July 26 in "The Marquis of Rivoli," "The Hat" and "La Mascotte." The Musical Society have engaged for 28, on which date the opera company lay off. "Evangeline" comes Aug. 14 for two weeks. Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels are actively rehearsing at the New Academy, where they open their season July 30, 31, giving two performances.

Manager Raynor has returned from Mr. Clemens Mich. feeling like a new man. The Wood & Blossom Co. came in 18, having closed at Neenah on short notice. Too many partners, who looked upon each other with suspicion—more so perhaps because business was light—one of the causes. Chas. A. Davis was here ahead of Sells Bros. Edward Cooke has changed his mind about going with Horace Lewis, and will remain with Jacob Litt next season. Chas. Horwitz, who wrote several songs for Sells Bros. and N. C. Goodwin, aspires to something higher. He wants to star, and thinks he could play the Photographer in "Dreams" to perfection. He has been trying to convince several parties of this for some time, but without the desired result. Sells Bros. have previously engaged T. F. Griffith of this city, Mr. Brown had to decline a flattering offer from the Palace Theatre. Manager Miller of the Palace is touring the State with Prof. Herald, magician. He was at Waukesha 21, 22, 23. T. F. & W. have some elegant paper. It is only a crying shame to see them.

LA SALLE.—The Kickapoo Indian Medicine Co., after a stay of five weeks here and in Peru, departed July 18. Turner's Opera-house is dark since the local entertainment 11 by the Sons of Veterans, when they presented "Enlisted for the War." The attendance was poor on account of the weather. T. F. Griffith of this city, Mr. Brown had to decline a flattering offer from the Palace Theatre. Manager Miller of the Palace is touring the State with Prof. Herald, magician. He was at Waukesha 21, 22, 23. T. F. & W. have some elegant paper. It is only a crying shame to see them.

APPLETON.—Major J. B. Pond's "Wandering Stars" July 15, had a fair house. Sells Bros. Car. No. 1, came 21 and put up some very nice paper. One of the billposters, Flynn, quit here on account of a misunderstanding with Stoneburner, manager of the city, who comes Aug. 8.

LA CROSSE.—Philip Phillips opened a three-night engagement July 15 to good business, and gave a first-class entertainment—"Around the World in Song." Sells Bros. come 22, with big prospects.

HURLEY.—At the Grand Central Theatre last week: Antonio Von Goffe, Waldo Whipple, Chas. A. Mack, Dan Benton, Ed. and George Nozart, Al. Schlick, Billy Wells, Grace Sylvano and Harry P. Williams.

OHIO.

CINCINNATI.—My letter this week will be remarkable only for its utter dullness. The torrid condition of the atmosphere—Old Sol has evidently been enjoying an unusual "vacation"—has been enough to drive me to bed, and there is hardly strength enough left in us to hold a pen; besides, gossip on the Rialto has been abandoned totally in the mad rush for ice-water and egg-lemonade. It is impossible to find a manager. I called on one last week. He landed information that he was absent at a watering place. The city was never so dull. A show item is something hard to get.

ZOOLOGICAL GARDENS.—This place has been a godsend for panting humanity. Its cool shades and grassy lawns are delightful. This season, so far, it has been the most profitable it has enjoyed in five years.

HIGHLAND HOUSE.—Manager Havlin has carried out his promise of an especially fine production of "The Beggar-student" by the McCollin Company, and, to the surprise of audiences, and will be continued as long as it pays. The Summer is proving the right kind for comic-opera at fresco.

CUNY ISLAND OF THE WEST.—The attendances here have been something positively enormous. The "Steamboat" Co. are loaded down with people eager for a breath of pure country air. This place of recreation and pleasure is indeed a blessing to the people.

CRUMBS.—The work on Havlin's Theatre is progressing. The alterations to the stage are of a busy character, carpenters and plasterers, who are rapidly transforming the place into a perfect palace. The decorations of the vestibule are the most costly ever placed in a theatre here. Manager John H. Robb, of the firm of Havlin & Robb, proprietors of the Theatre, accompanied by his brother, Howell E. Robb, treasurer of H. & R.'s new St. Louis house, has been in this city for some days, the guests of Manager Havlin. They left for St. Louis, where they will be engaged for a long time. St. Louis, a scenic-artist. Ollie Haglan, Havlin & Robb's St. Louis representative, leaves for that city in a few days, to take charge of Paves Theatre. J. H. Rieley, late business-manager "Bound to Success" Co., left for Niagara Falls, where he will be engaged for a long time. New York Aug. 4. Conrad (Cooney) Bowers is away, working up the tour of Esther Lyons. Manager Havlin takes pride in saying that his business-offices will be the handsomest in the entire West. He has a local representative, is summing here. His rest is a short one. Harry D. Graham is billing time rapidly for the Amusement Syndicate. A tragedy, "The Mists of Time," will be produced in a magnificent manner by this company. The show will be more than elaborate. The new spectacle by the Order of Cincinnati, "Rome Under Nero," may eclipse "The Fall of Babylon," the last production of this order, now running so successfully at Staten Island. The place of its exhibition is capable of seating 20,000 people, and is a covered pavilion, mammoth in proportions. The spectacle begins its exhibitions first week in August. The Hammersey Opera Co. is playing a successful summer season through the State. George Fisher will play with the company. The Minstrels next week. Byron W. Orr of Chillicothe has been offered the advance of "Michael Strogoff." Manager R. E. J. Miles is taking a week's rest on his farm near this city. "Fantine" will follow "The Beggar-student" at the Highland House. With Mike Coyne, Chas. Day, Bob Dingess and Bob Campbell working up the city, Forepaugh's stand here, Aug. 8, 9, 10, should prove a financial success. Dan Rice and his bride will remain in the city this month. The veteran clown is busy writing his book. It ought to prove highly entertaining and meet with a ready sale. Archie White, manager, and G. W. Clay, advance-agent, of Duprez & Benedict's Minstrels, are in the city. The new Lexington, Ky. Opera-house was inaugurated July 19 with a concert given by the Cincinnati Orchestra—fifty pieces, under the leadership of Louis Ballenberg. It is said to be beautiful. The scenery is by De Witt C. Waugh. It is rumored that James Collins and D. B. Hughes, the latter formerly a scenic-artist, have leased the Vine-street Opera-house.

TOLEDO.—The Wilbur Opera Co. is playing "Fra Diavolo" this week. "The Grand Duchess" had a splendid run last week. On July 27 the delegates and alternates of the Republican State Convention, 1,000 strong, will attend the performance.

EXETER.—Monarch and Smith, the Germans, Gardner and Bernard, Harris Sisters (Clarence and Bessie), Allen and Forest comprise the new faces at this house this week. Kittle Morris remains over.

COLUMBUS.—At the Metropolitan Opera-house, McNish Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels open their season July 26, the opera company giving way on that evening. Much credit is due to the Critter's Company for their performances last week of "The Mascot," "Bohemian Girl" and "Olivette."

PARK THEATRE.—The fifth Ohio Singsong will be held in this theatre 29, 30. Fursch-Madi and other distinguished soloists, together with all the Ohio choral societies, will participate.

EICHENLAUB'S AMUSEMENT HALL.—Business is good at this place. Week opening 25: Harris and Green, Frank Lewis, Lowrie and Johnson, Annie Wildermuth, Blanche Lamont and Prof. Weissman. Forepaugh's Circus is due Aug. 2.

TITON.—The Shawhan closed its season with the Baldwin Opera Co., and no positive bookings are made as yet for the coming season. The citizens of Titon may well be proud of our Opera-house in its present condition. E. B. Hubbard has had the management of the Shawhan for the past seven years, and during that time he has converted the old, fast dancing-hall into the following condition: House seated with opera-chairs; capacity, 1,000; size of stage, 35x45 ft.; lighted by electric-light; proscenium opening, 35x30 ft.; height from stage to grooves, 10 ft.; height to rigging, 44 ft.; twelve bill sets of scenery. Our people show their appreciation of the effort the Doctor has made by giving him packed houses at all entertainments. The following is the staff connected with the Shawhan: Dr. E. B. Hubbard, lessee and manager; Henry Fielding, assistant-manager and treasurer; George Souder, janitor and stage-manager.

FINDLAY.—C. and J. M. Cramer have organized a class in dramatic instruction, and contemplate giving occasional entertainments in this city. Prof. De Goode and his "Kid Hand" will concertize at the Natural Gas Wigwag July 30. John H. Russell will produce "Natural Gas" in Toronto, Can., early in August. The scenes are laid in Findlay, O., and at Newport, R. I. The various characters grow suddenly wealthy by the discovery of natural gas on their property, and all the complications come out of the heavy plunge from remote obscurity into the "dizzy vortex of society." The roster of Mr. Russell's Co. includes John D. Gilbert, Henry Donnelly, Edward Girard, Amy Ames, James R. Radcliffe, Catherine Howe, May Yoke, Kate Allen and others. Mr. Russell will be remembered by the country. Geo. E. Rogers, lessee and manager of Davis' Opera-house, contemplates a pleasure trip West during the heated term.

PORTSMOUTH.—The Grand Opera-house has a number of good attractions booked for next season, and will open Sept. 27, is still open. French's "New Sensation," which was booked for July 21, failed to show up. The two new railroads now being built will make Portsmouth an excellent show town.

MARIETTA.—At the Park Theatre, the following opened July 25: Jerome, Emma Leon, Nellie Edwards, J. W. Thompson, Kattie Smith, Lottie Leile and Lillie Harris. Business is good, considering the hot weather.

URBANA.—Hammersey's Opera Co., headed by Bella Nicholson, will play at Bennett's Opera-house July 25 and week. Shields' Southern Show opened 21 to a very fair audience, with a heavy rainstorm against them.

NEW PHILADELPHIA.—Mills & Russell's Tenth Circus is billed for July 29, 30.

ILLINOIS.

CHICAGO.—No diminution in the size of the audiences that crowd the Chicago Opera-house to see the "Arabian Nights" is noticeable. It is drawing better than any other attraction that has been here this Summer, and is now in its eighth week. T. W. Keene will open the Fall season.

HOOLEY'S THEATRE.—H. E. Dixey is not having overworking houses, but his "Adonia" draws fairly good audiences.

MCKICKER'S THEATRE.—"Our Society" was last week's attraction. The show has been a success. "Welcome, Little Stranger," a new farce-comedy by Henry Arthur Jones, was brought out this week for the first time on any stage, though it had been intended to save it for the Fall opening in New York.

COLUMBIA THEATRE.—Hermann & Bauer wound up a profitable three weeks' season of opera with a week of "The Marquis of Rivoli." Indifferently presented, and ended the Columbia's season.

CASINO.—"All Bala," the second edition of "The Forty Thieves," had a good week, and now the third volume is on—the last of the series.

OLYMPIC THEATRE.—After an excellent week of the Quaker City Specialty Co., Flora Moore's Co. is on.

PARK THEATRE.—This week: Ned Harry, the Lee Bros. Tommy Adams, Max Hugo, Maggie Burzell, Lillie Marr, Willie Lee, Turner and Russell, Bly and Miller, and J. W. Kelley.

GRINER'S GARDENS.—Chas. A. Gardner continued in "Karl to Good-bye." Extra Notes.—There is a rumor that Dan Shelby, manager of the Academy of Music, will have the Columbia Theatre next season. (But Manager J. M. Hill strenuously denies it.—EN. CLIPPER.) Aug. 1 Fred Hallen will go into the Casino with Mr. Daniels, having bought out Mr. Hays' interest. The house will be closed long enough to put in an electric light plant, and make a few alterations. Theodore Lieser, a German tragedian sixty-seven years old, living at 1,522 Wolfram street, has gone crazy from over study. On July 17 employees of the Chicago Opera-house had a difference of opinion with their foreman and tried to drag two of the calcium-light cylinders out of the theatre. Manager Henderson knocked one of them down, and a fight broke out. The three employees being arrested and fined $25 each. Carrie Alice Hill Stephens, an actress, applied for a divorce 22 from John Wesley Stephens, an actor. They were married in March, 1882, and he deserted her a year ago. The Theodore Thomas concert and next week will be a very successful season.

Manager J. H. McKicker has given $25 to the Fresh-air Fund, and on 28 a benefit matinee for the Fund will be given at Hooley's participated in by Dixey's, Mr. Palmer's, "The Arabian Nights" Co. and others.

DECATUR.—Richards & Pringle's Georgia Minstrels are booked at the Opera-house for Aug. 5, and McIntyre & Heath come 19; but the regular season will not open until when H. C. Miner's Co. will present "The Silver King," to be followed by a very fine list of attractions. Sam Young's "Bad Boy" Co. begin a week's engagement at Oakland Park July 25, and Tribbey & Co.'s Ten-cent Circus will close 25, 26, 27. Earle Remington, who is visiting here, has been signed with C. A. Gardner for next season as leading-subretrie. I see THE CLIPPER has something to say occasionally in regard to "old-timers in the business, and in this connection would like to call attention to Manager W. H. Haines of this city, who is the oldest and best-known billposter and local manager in any one night stand in the West, having been in the same business here for over twenty years. As sole manager of Smith's Opera-house for the past thirteen years he has been very successful, and has done business agreeably with nearly every agent and manager in the country from Ned Kendall, Henry E. Abbey and Marcus Mayer down. He was for a short time ahead of Manning's Minstrels while Billy Strickland was sick and unable to work. If he has an enemy in the hall, show or circus profession, it is not known, and I think his record, which is a good one, is worthy of more than a passing mention.

BLOOMINGTON.—Sam Young's "Bad Boy" Co., supporting Phil S. Griner, were at the Pavilion Theatre last week to the capacity of the theatre. Haverly's newly organized and greatest effort atbury Theatre 19, to light business. The main thing lacking is a good afterpiece. This week at the Pavilion Theatre, the De Molay orchestra of twenty-five pieces.

MINNESOTA.

ST. PAUL.—At Sackett & Wigwag's Dime Museum I could get no dates for week of July 25. Their all-fixture tent show is doing a good business, as well as their theatrical performance. Sells Bros. Show came 26. Manager Scott of the Grand has returned from New York City, having been very successful in making bookings.

DULUTH.—At the Grand Opera-house, Zerega's Royal Spanish Troubadours, with Edward K. Hood (humorist), gave one concert July 18 to a very fair audience. The Duluth Theatre had the usual large house with nearly a new company, consisting of Florence Syva, Chas. Reese, Anna Clifton, Henrietta Gerry, Barrett and Lorraine, Kittle Gilmore, Jerry Gorman, Grace May, Jennings and O'Brien, Joe Hayden and Willie West, with "Legal Difficulties" as the afterpiece.

PYGMALION.

Ab. were the legend of Pygmalion true I think my hand would clench the chisel so That all my soul would to my fingers flow Till they would bring my inmost thoughts to view.

As I should from the shapeless marble hew A form that, like your own, should surely grow So true that "neath my carving hand would show My soul's ideal—the counterpart of you.

And not as stone should there unbreathing lie A soulless shape wrought by the sculptor's knife; For I would voice my soul with such a cry That it should hear and rise, my breathing wife, Breaking its sleep with love's awaking sigh, When I had loved it into pulsing life.

NEW YORK.

REVIEW OF THE WEEK.—"Ermine's" 450th performance at the Casino, Thursday night, July 21, was a truly festive occasion, for all it was a minner. Every principal in the cast was greeted with lavish cordiality by a big house. Flowers in profusion, pretty souvenirs and many encores were incidents of the evening. As for "Ermine" it, itself, the correct number of its city performances on that gala night was 448, and that was not a record for consecutive representations, either. But the opera is a remarkable success, just the same, and it promises to last a month or two longer, without much stretching. TERRACE GARDEN was well attended during the week, and Manager Amberg's German-opera Co. continued the attraction, save on Wednesday night, 20, when a Grand Army celebration occupied the Garden. The dark theatres were nineteen in number, viz.: Daly's, the PARK, BROAD, FIFTH-AVENUE, H. R. JACOBS' THIRD-AVENUE

In the suit of Dr. George Colligan against Alfred Brett, to which we made reference last week, for the recovery of the diamonds of the late Nellie Larkelle, Mr. Brett, brother, testified that he obtained possession of the jewels by her express wish before her death, a statement of which he submitted in writing to the referee during the hearing July 21. The diamonds are mostly paste, the value of the whole lot not being over $500. The examination was continued 22, but no new facts were brought out.

LONDON THEATRE.—"The Boulevard March" struck the Bowery in full force afternoon of July 25. Robert Recker and his orchestra "did the trick," and did it exceedingly well. The audience liked the march, and insisted on an encore. These skilled musicians rendered the vocal interpolations with sprightly effect. Mr. Recker can lay good claim to having done this much-talked-of composition for the first time in the east. Considering the season of the year, the London held good-sized audiences afternoon and evening of July 25, when the following appeared in an amusing list: Sam and Hannah Holdsworth (their first appearance, we believe, for two seasons at a Bowery theatre). Mr. and Mrs. Joe Allen, Combs and Collins, Carl, the clever and rapid landscape painter; the Burroughs, El Nino Eddie and Press Eldridge. The opening and closing numbers on the programme afforded good opportunities for the display of the company's versatility. Next week, Duncan Clark's Co.

AT TERRACE GARDEN evening of July 25, "The Bat" was sung with good effect by the Thalia Opera Co. The audience was of fair size. Max Lube, Paula Buechner, Johanna Schatz, Duschka Lerna and the rest of the cast did good work. "The Beggar Student" Thursday and "Der Freischütz" Friday. Max Lube benefited on Tuesday evening in a substantial manner. Director of orchestra Steinfort will benefit on Friday evening. The opera season will virtually close Friday evening, although a performance will be given Saturday night. Manager Amberg will probably sail for Europe this week. He will go to Germany via England. During his stay Vichy will enjoy his presence for a few weeks. New operas, plays and artists will be brought back by Mr. Amberg.

MINER'S BOWERY THEATRE.—The following opened July 25 for a week's stay: Larry Tooley, Dick Carroll, Billy Carter, Deimann Bros., Ward and Lynch, Flotner, French, Dick and John, Cummings, Howard and Fox, Rose and Martin, Julian and C. Stockman. The house held a hot-weather audience on Monday evening. Maud Beverly was announced on the bills, but canceled on account of illness.

Tony Patton sailed from Liverpool for home July 23, and is expected to arrive here on Saturday next.

Nor to be outdone by his brother managers in the way of having a society lady for a stellar attraction, Gustav Amberg proposes to bring out next season Anna Fisher of this city. She is a lady of high social position in the best domestic circles of this city. She was musically educated abroad, and is said to possess a voice of rich contralto quality. Her family seemingly oppose her wishes as regards a stage career, but she thinks she has the requisites for a prominent stage position. She is determined to try her fortune in the profession. She possesses rare physical charms, which will, of course, do much towards a public acknowledgment of her debut, which is now set down for next season at the Thalia Theatre. She will first try her fortunes in smaller roles, and, if her abilities permit, she will later come forth in more ambitious parts. Her first appearance will be in an opera never before done in this country. It is of the French school, and great brilliancy is claimed for the music and libretto.

MC CAULI'S OPERA CO. revived "The Beggar Student" at Wallace's Theatre July 25 to a large audience. "The Bellman" will be sung for the first time in America Aug. 8.

JACOB BORKER became cashier for Manager Gustav Amberg of the Thalia Theatre last week, and deposited $10,000 as security. He gave up the position recently, but claims to have received only $100 of his deposit from Manager Amberg. Suit has been started to recover the amount.

It is said that the old London Stage is to be closed up altogether, the management failing to make it pay. The owners are now in possession of the property.

ALBANY.—At the Leland Opera-house July 25, Sweattam, Rice & Fagan's Minstrels.

Rice's Circus opened its season at Hudson-avenue lot and did good business until interfered with by the rain afternoon of 20. On the morning of 21 the street-parade started without the band, and with Mr. O'Brien ahead in a carriage and with the least possible number of help. When the parade reached Kenwood, a Southern suburb of Albany, one of the party asked the agent where he intended to go, and he replied Philadelphia, whereupon the man returned to the lot and found that Mrs. O'Brien claimed the tent and its equipment as her personal property, but required police protection to prevent their being destroyed by the employees who were left behind and who had not been paid for three months.

SARATOGA.—At Putnam's Music Hall the entertainments given by Nannie Palmer were so well appreciated that the management have engaged her for another week in an entire change of repertoire. Aug. 1, the New York Standard Opera Co. are expected for two weeks. At the Town Hall July 25, Sweattam, Rice & Fagan's Minstrels, a large audience; Aug. 1, 2, Kate W. Howe will give an entertainment for L. M. Wheeler's Relief Fund G. A. R. benefit. McNish, Johnson & Slavin's Refined Minstrels will arrive here Aug. 5. Barnum's Circus will appear at Kenwood, Broadway Grounds. T. H. Winnett and wife are stopping at the Grand Union. M. L. Miller, manager and proprietor of Miller's Opera-house at Mansfield, O., is enjoying himself here for the short time. Dave R. Reckley, treasurer of the Grand Union Opera-house, Mansfield, Pa., spent a few days with us last week. Dyke Brooke, late with Murphy's "Shawn Blue" and "Kerry Gow" Co., is at Pleasant Home for a week. William Black is so well pleased with Saratoga that he will spend another week before joining the "Across the Atlantic" Co. as business manager. William Cunningham, who is passing the summer at the Huestis House, has signed to go with Gus Hill's World of Novelties next season as manager of transportation. S. S. Schenck, who went ahead of Abbey's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Co. next season. He made me a brief call last week. William Paul Brown of the Boston Ideal Opera Co. is here for a week. J. M. Rich, who last season was manager of the "Fun and Frolic" Co. is at the United States for a week. He will take out an opera company next season. Charles E. Cleveland, representing McNish, Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels, was here 23. George Dusenbury, the reader, is a guest at Congress Park Place. Etta Rich, who recently made her debut at the Boston Theatre, is expected at the Clarendon shortly. G. T. Clapham, of Sweattam, Rice & Fagan, was in town in completing arrangements for his company's appearance here. David S. Wainwright, who is enjoying himself at the United States, Mrs. H. B. Rice of Boston, a soprano-singer who has sung in the leading churches and at concerts here, is at Temple Grove for a brief period. Lillian Russell is spending her vacation here. Nannie Palmer is very pleasantly located at the Pleasant Home. Alice J. Shaw, the waif of your city, has arrived, and will exhibit her powers at the military entertainment set down for Aug. 1, 2. Barnum's car, No. 2, with fifteen men, under the charge of Cete Pulver, was here July 18. At Rice, in charge of Barnum's car, No. 3, arrived here evening of 23.

POINT CHAUTAUQUE.—Matters on the lake are in a very busy state, with no chance of abatement for several weeks to come. Bella Moore opened at the Temple of Music to good business. Jennie Calt was here July 18. At Rice, in charge of Barnum's car, No. 3, arrived here evening of 23. Point Chautauque is a place to spend the summer. I have not learned of any attraction at this place for the near future except numerous picnics and the National Amateur Regatta, which will be held July 27, and which will undoubtedly attract large crowds, as the entries are very numerous and the prizes many and beautiful. As I predicted, Chautauque Lake is fast becoming a resort for theatrical people, on account of its beauty, health and inexpensiveness as a place to spend the summer. G. W. Moore, better known as "Pony"

Moore, the old minstrel and sporting man of London, Eng., is visiting his son-in-law, Chas. Mitchell, who is in training here for his act with Gallagher of Cleveland. Manager E. A. Hempstead of Mendonville is spending the summer on the lake, as is also Manager Roberts of Olean. Manager Von Duren of the Temple has the Darnon Family Female Orchestra at the Temple, and they are scoring hits. Several first-class attractions will be at this house soon, and business looks prosperous for the rest of the season. Cora Van Lamsen opens at the Allen Aug. 18 in "Hidden Hand." Manager Ed. Young reports time nearly all filled at first-class city theatres, and has great confidence which I think is well deserved for this season's success. Manager Allen will have many improvements made in the Opera-house next season. Bella Moore and her company are enjoying the lake breezes, bathing and yachting, many kindnesses being extended them by Frank Fox of the Chautauque House. Frank has a very warm side for theatrical people. The season is away ahead of any previous one, and promises to tax all places of entertainment to their capacity to accommodate guests. The New Chautauque Lake R. R. was opened July 23 by a monster excursion. Prof. Johnson's G. A. R. band furnished the music.

GLENS FALLS.—Wallace & Co.'s advertising-car arrived here July 22, with a large force of bill posters and an unlimited supply of paper. As a result of their visit this city and the surrounding towns have been painted a deep, dazzling crimson hue, announcing the circus Aug. 4. J. J. Burke, manager, leader of Jacobs & Proctor's Grand Opera-house orchestra, Newark, N. J., who has been summering here, left last week for Lake George, where he has joined the Marion Hotel Orchestra for the balance of the summer. Following is the roster of Fitzpatrick's Merry-makers of this city, who will make a short summer tour of the Adirondack resorts: M. J. Fitzpatrick, Ella Beebe (Mrs. M. J. Fitzpatrick), Claude and Jennie Fitzpatrick, Jennie Beebe and Laura.

PORT EDWARD.—The Opera-house will remain dark until Aug. 9, when Hennessy Bros. Minstrels will appear. Barnum's Circus, which shows at Saratoga Aug. 8, is heavily billed here. William A. Wilder, a former Port Edward comedian, is enjoying a brief vacation in this vicinity. Mr. Wilder was at one time a member of the California Minstrels (local talent), which he organized here a few years ago. He is now located at Oneonta, N. Y. Wallace & Co.'s advertising-car passed through here July 22, en route to Glens Falls. John H. Craig, a musician, passed through here last week, en route to the D. and H. C. R. R., en route to Barre, Vt. He said that he weighed 144 lb. He had a seat all the time.

ROCHESTER.—At the Grand Opera-house, Sweattam, Rice & Fagan's Minstrels appear for one night, July 28, at 8 o'clock. J. J. Burke, in advance, and Geo. T. Clapham, manager, of Sweattam, Rice & Fagan's Minstrels, were in the city the past week. Frank Edwards, press-agent for Jacobs & Proctor in this city, is spending his vacation with his wife in Little Falls and Schenectady.

BROOKLYN.—The Music Hall at the corner of Flatbush and Fulton avenues (late Brooklyn Museum) is being reconstructed for the purpose of making a great furniture mart, and consequently Brooklyn will have one less museum than it had last year.

MAINE.

PORTLAND.—The people on the stage at Peak's Island this week are: Tom Ryan, Mal Richfield, Dan Hart, Lottie Aiden, James Kelly, May Templeton and Prof. Adolph Seeman. Executive staff: S. P. Norman, manager; W. D. Marks, treasurer; George Harris, press-agent; George Duke, stage carpenter; James Kelly, stage-manager; and Prof. Louis F. Jones, leader of orchestra. A great improvement is noticed in the class attending the performance, and in the performers themselves to what has been the rule of former years, due directly to the energy of Manager Norman.

GREENWOOD GARDENS.—C. H. Knowlton's Opera-house is doing a satisfactory business with the Wilkinson Comic-opera Co. in standard pieces. This week "Patience" and "Virginia" will be sung, with nearly all the old favorites of last season in the cast. The choruses are much stronger than those of last year and the work of the principals is perceptibly improved. The company will give two land give concerts Sunday nights when it doesn't rain.

The business done here by the Barnum Show was the largest for years and the performance the best. As they played only three times, the performance was literally packed at every performance. A dollar for a circus seat looks rather high, though to our people.

GEORGIA.

MACON.—Columbus, Ga., presented "Nevada" at the Academy night of July 21. Macon seemed anxious to give them a big reception when they came, but so many people were off at the watering-places, and the heat was so intense, that they drew a very moderate audience.

WORLD OF AMUSEMENT.

The company engaged for "The Two Old Cronies" will comprise Frank M. Willis, John E. Henshaw, William F. Rochester, Charles Stanley, George M. Willis, Albert Lynch, Gus Gebhardt, W. C. Anderson (manager), H. C. Danforth (advancer), May Ten Brock, Lizzie Hill, Norma Wells, Lena Cole, Kate Bardsley, Annie Wheatley, Annette Groose, Margaret Hall and Grace Barron. The season opens at Pope's Theatre, St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 3.

Louis E. Weed is arranging a moonlight excursion up the Hudson River Aug. 1, the net proceeds to go to the Actors' Fund.

Pauline Markham's tour will start Sept. 10.

C. T. Vincent's comedy "A Grass Widow" was done recently at the Grand Union, Mansfield, Pa. Manager W. J. Gilmore, who has returned to Philadelphia from "Frisco," brings the news that Frank L. Gardner and Carrie Swan are registered at the Royal Hotel, Melbourne Aus., as Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Gardner, and contemplate a trip to Germany.

Charles J. Hawthorne, scene-painter, died at No. 1537 Ridge avenue, Philadelphia, Pa., July 22, of general debility. He was born seventy-eight years ago in Sumatra, and came to this country in 1850 under engagement to Laura Keane. Five years later he was engaged by Mrs. John Drew for the Arch Street Theatre, with which he remained until three years ago, when he became incapacitated for work on account of failing eyesight. Among his notable works were "The School for Scandal," "Caste," "Ours" and "School for Scandal."

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Winnett are among recent visitors at Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

Wm. H. Leyden has been engaged by Frank Mayo for next season.

A new American comic-opera, said to be intended for production by McCaull & Co., is called "Unita, or All About the Bonnet." The libretto is by A. F. Dunlop, a New York journalist, music by Richard Storpe. The piece was written expressly for the theatre. The action is placed in some American hundred years ago, and is intended to burlesque social and political conditions of the United States to-day.

The Oliver W. Wren Co. commence their Fall tour Aug. 15, with nearly the same company as last season. L. C. Jones will attend to the business-management.

"Russia," a play adapted from a novel by Mme. Henry Greville, will be produced Aug. 22 at the National Theatre, Washington, D. C., the following appearing in the cast: E. C. Bangs, Charlotte Beltrons, S. W. Glenn, Harry Colton, F. Ambrose, T. D. Fawley, G. Santius, L. Browning, Chas. Howard, Chas. Westworth, Abbie Pierce, Carrie Livingston, Sadie Le Claire and Mabel Stanwood.

Hamilton Harris is re-engaged for leading business with Winnett's "Passion's Slave" Co.

The Williams Swiss Bellringers are camping at Onset Bay, Mass.

Nattie Grinnell writes us that she is the only Miss Grinnell engaged for staidness in Kiraly's "Black Crook" Co. She is spending the summer at Greenwich, N. J.

George A. La Tour has been engaged for heavy work with "A Knight of Labor" Co.

Alfred E. Mackintosh has been engaged for "Our Railroad Men" Co.

The Mattie Vickers Co. will commence their season the latter part of August. Among those already engaged are: Zack T. Carroll, W. C. Burnham, Geo. W. Pike, W. J. Nelson, Thos. Crimmet, A. Phoebe, W. H. Browne, Dollie Thornton, Emma Lovie, Dora Hewitt and Chas. S. Rogers.

Lizzie Conway and Chas. H. Stanley have been specially engaged for Atkinson's "Aphrodite" Co., which opens Aug. 1 a season of two weeks at the Boston Theatre, managed by the Boston Theatre Co., met with a severe accident recently. A gun was accidentally discharged in his face, filling his eyes with powder. Fears are entertained that he will lose the sight of his left eye.

The roster of Mrs. W. H. Riley's Comedy Co. for the coming season is: Mrs. W. H. Riley, Anna E. Davis, Lillie Tucker, Alice Ball, Mrs. Dora St. Clair, Eddie St. Clair, L. A. Warner, Harry Coffey, Geo. X. White, Jno. Livingston, Frank Robertson (manager), Chas. F. Lyons (drum-major), Sam Burton (stage manager), Karl Atkinson, Al. H. Bally, Harry Underhill, Walter Milroy, Walter S. Coffey (leader of orchestra), W. N. Livingston (leader of band) and Hurr Graves. The company will open their season Aug. 1 at Marshall, Mo.

The Esther Lyons Co. open their season Aug. 1 at Hillsboro, O.

Manager David Henderson of Chicago is in the East for a week or so.

Manager J. C. Duffran on to Chicago July 21 to see "The Arabian Nights" at the Casino Opera-house.

The people engaged for Heywood's Maatodons and "T. C. C. Co." are as follows: W. D. McDonald, Miss L. Grand, John Hopwood, W. D. Wallace, Geo. M. Aug. 15. The roster of the company is as follows: John Flood, Robert Edson, Mills Hall, Mrs. E. A. Eberle, Ethel Barrington, Mary Clare and Carrie Walton; W. G. Peters, manager; A. Delisser, treasurer.

Bartram & Burbridge's Co., in "A Night of It," will tour all the principal cities, opening in Eastport, Me., Aug. 15. says: "Auditor-general Norris telegraphed County-treasurer Stackhouse yesterday that Forepaugh was exhibiting in the State without a license, and presented a bill for $50 for this county. Mr. Forepaugh refused to pay it on the ground that he paid $1,000 for a State license Sept. 21, 1886, for one year. The Deputy-treasurer then made an information against him for exhibiting without a license, and the act of 1884. Chief-of-police Harris arrested Mr. Forepaugh and took him before Justice Fisher. The Commonwealth contended that the license he had was not for a year from last September, but only for the fiscal year, ending June 1887, and had expired. Finally Mr. Forepaugh paid the $50 and costs under protest.

DANIEL LUKK, a candy-buher with the Forepaugh Circus, was killed by a freight train on the P. R. R. tracks at Johnstown, Pa., July 24. Deceased was about thirty-nine years old, and lived with his widowed mother on Forty-eighth street, this city.

FRANK C. GAYLER, general press-agent for Frank A. Robbins' Circus, while in Ottawa, Can., was presented with a handsome meerschaum pipe by C. W. Mitchell, proprietor of The Free Press of that city.

THE large exhibition-car of Robinson's Circus which weighs about eight tons, was being hauled up Davidson's Hill, at Lewis, Can., July 23, by eight horses. Charles H. Smith, of Fishing, L. I., was driver. Davidson's Hill leads from the Grand Trunk Railway station to Lewis Heights, about three hundred feet above the river level. On the steepest part of the hill the four front horses attempted to turn, when the traces gave way and the car descended the hill with great velocity, dragging the remaining horses with it. One was killed outright. The others were seriously injured. The car was badly smashed and was stopped in its mad career by running into a house, which it partially demolished. On the way down the hill, the driver and broke the legs of a horse belonging to a Lewis cabman. Charles Smith, driver of the van, was thrown violently to the ground and sustained fatal injuries, his brains protruding from the cut in his head when he was picked up after the accident.

NORRIS FROM THE CLIPPER. I notice that Scribner & Clements, referring to the rough towns they have visited, mention Youngstown, O., and say they never played to more orderly crowds, and that Menches & son had the misfortune to be cut down while showing there. Although showing to the capacity of the canvas, when we came to leave Youngstown we found every guy-rope, stake and inch of canvas that we took into the city was intact, and we did not have nine policemen inside the canvas either. A slight disturbance outside the canvas between a green canvasser and some small boys was the nearest approach to a cut-down we had; but the Cleveland papers gave us a great deal of free show advertising on it, so we let it go at that. The closest thing to a regular visitor with us that attracts very little attention is a young fellow, except Mrs. Chase, who has gone East in search of health. Mrs. Jas. R. Adams and her big son rejoined the show 18, and Jas. R. is happy. Mrs. Chase, Menches and son also joined the show 18 for a few weeks' visit. On the morning of the 18th, when some big leaping. Yesterday afternoon he did a double over seven horses and went the distance of 2 ft. 1 1/2 in. and a height of 10 ft., lighting squarely on his feet. He and Nubar Hassan join hands this Fall, doing a new sort of brother-act. They will be a strong team, with lots of act. Hassan's wire-act is the hit of the show. Our business has been big. In Alliance, O., we sold over eleven hundred tickets to our concert. It was the biggest of the season so far. We are not looking for opening night, but when we meet it we can take care of it. I am sorry to say a canvasser got stuck on the head last night with a pole and was badly hurt. It was done while tearing down. He was taken to the hotel, where everything was done that could be. He is better this morning, and will stay here a few days. The management have done everything for his comfort. I trust all other shows will do as well this season as we are doing.

A PANTHER in Capt. Park's party, July 24, was dead, but the other was a promising animal. A large board screen was placed before the cage to protect the mother and young from annoyance and drafts, but the precaution was unavailing. The second little panther died in the afternoon. It is said by the attendants at the Park that the poor success in breeding animals of the cat kind there is owing to the lack of a proper place to keep them.

Darling.

Darling.

Times, 1.45.

An exceedingly exciting contest took place July 30, when the above result was reversed. Two errors by Nash proved very costly, giving the Chicago four of their six runs scored in the fourth and fifth innings. A three-bagger by Wise sent in two runs and enabled the home team to tie the score in the seventh inning. A home-run by Sullivan in the following inning won the game for the visitors. Madden was "doubled up" at the plate in the ninth inning while attempting to score on a fly

Superior fielding ended the Bostonians on July 21, thus evening up the victories in the series. Kelly did the best batting, and by a fine throw cut off Anson at the plate in the ninth inning. Two wonderful catches were made by Johnston. Kelly got two hits, including a double fly ball without going within twenty feet of third base. Then Kelly got a point on Baldwin for striking out of center, and both men lost their run. Sullivan was taken sick in the fourth inning, and gave way to Darling.

New York vs. Indianapolis.
The eighth game was played July 19 on the Polo Grounds, the New Yorks then scoring their seventh victory of the series. Boyle was hit hard in three successive innings, when the New Yorks pounded out nine runs, and secured a long lead. Welch kept the visitors from buncing their hits. Ward did the best batting. A splendid catch was made by Gore. The short-stopping of Glascock and Ward was noteworthy.

The New Yorks would have had trouble in defeating Indianapolis July 20, but for the latter getting rattled in the fourth inning. The home-team were then given five unearned runs or errors by the visitors' pitching staff of McGraw, Egan, and Connor, and a single by Tiernan, earned the sixth and last run credited to the home-team. The visitors narrowly escaped being blanked a safe hit by Glascock and a fumble by Keefe, after the latter had given Seery first on balls, yielding two runs.

UMPIRE MITCHELL made a farce of his work in the Athletic-Cleveland game July 22, according to the reports in the local papers. At the end of the fifth inning the score stood at 6 to 2 in favor of the Cleveland, and in the sixth inning the Cleveland batters, Bauer and Morrison threw him out at first by three feet, but the umpire called him safe. Stovey then ran for second, and Stricker caught him by fully 8 feet. The umpire said: "Not out," Bauer then hit Stricker, and Lyons scored on a wild throw Stovey going to third. With Larkin a hot bat, Bauer started to steal second, and was caught by Snyder's good throw. Stovey, in order to save Bauer, an in from him. Stricker threw his home run. Stovey was surprised, but he didn't want to purposely put in Snyder's way, which allowed Stovey to regain third. Stricker again kicked a homer. The umpire called Stovey out. Stovey said he was not out and would not come in. Then the umpire said: "Well, you're not out, but this man is. Some body's out." And Larkin was told to take a seat on the bench. Then a wrangle took place between the umpire and Milligan, and while they were arguing Stricker walked over to the grandstand and changed seats. He was seated next to Sam. "What do you say, Jimmy, shall we quit?" The umpire immediately turned around and declared

The Bradford (Pa.) team disbanded July 20. The club was financially all right, but the disbanding of Johnstown, Reading and Williamsport and the desertion of Wilkesbarre and Scranton, who went into the International League, left the remaining three clubs no possibility of finishing the season. The Allentons will, however, make an effort to purchase an International League franchise before the opening of the season. Allentons will play as an independent club, being conveniently situated to secure exhibition games from members of the Na-

The Athletics of Philadelphia tried a new pitcher in Chapman July 22, but he was easily punished by the visiting team from Cleveland. The Athletics management have apparently adopted the old Baltimore plan of constant changes in their team, and the result is as bad as Barnie found it. This year Barnie keeps his team together and in consequence he is winning. The Athletics are to perform at this season, the year, viz., in second place.

MANAGER DANIELS of the Hartford Club recommends pitcher Gruber to Maitre, but the latter does not think him worth the salary he asked, and Dr.

It is stated that the Pittsburg team have secured Hibbard as pitcher. Hibbard pitched three games for the Chicagoas two years ago and has since pitched for the Michigan University team.

LIGHT-WEIGHTS IN THE RING.

Weir and Havlin Fight a Drawn Battle of Over Four Hours' Duration.

The match between El Weir, "The Belfast Spider," and Jack Havlin of Boston was decided at Rocky Point, a few miles from Providence, R. I., on Wednesday night, July 20. The scenery customary on such occasions was not observed, and the crowd to see the mill was the largest that has been present at a prize-fighting contest for years. Fortunately, however, the authorities were left out in the cold as to the location of the battle-ground, and there was no interference. Upon going to scale it was found that Havlin weighed 120 lb., four pounds more than the Spider, and by the terms of the agreement the latter was entitled to claim a forfeit on account of overweight, but he was so confident of his ability to defeat his less experienced and scientific adversary that he waived his claim. The Spider was first to enter the ring, being attended by Dan Gill, and was soon followed by Havlin, who had Jack Ashion of Providence for second. Weir forced the fighting from the start, and gained first blood in the first round, when he visited his opponent's face repeatedly, administering severe punishment. In the third round the Spider planted two or three hard blows on Havlin's left eye, which began to swell, while his face was cut in several places. The latter stood up to his work gamely, getting in a few good blows, one of which, that took effect on the neck, bringing the recipient to the floor and securing Havlin credit for the first knockdown. Weir held the upper hand until they had been fighting over an hour, when his hands began to suffer from the terrific contact with the hard head of his opponent, and he found it good policy to save them. Consequently, from the twenty-fifth round to the close little execution was done by either principal, for while the Spider acted mainly on the defensive, his opponent was always on the offensive, and the two, had he possessed the science of his adversary, might have taken advantage of the opportunity presented by the latter's inability to inflict further punishment worth mentioning, but he was lacking in this essential, and the boxer from Belfast was very successful in evading danger. They continued to come up round after round until sixty-one had been contested, when the seconds, seeing that it was not in the power of either man to finish his opponent, induced them to agree to a draw, after they had been in the ring four hours and six minutes. During more than half of the time the contest was very tame, some of the rounds passing without a blow, and the spectators were heartily tired of the exhibition, and by no means sorry when the men agreed to cry quits. When the fight was carried on in earnest it was a contest worth witnessing, and reflected credit upon both principals, who displayed rare courage and determination. Of the two, Havlin was in the better condition, and had the ability of the Spider he ought to have won. On the other hand, had not Weir been so tired, given over to his opponent, he would probably have succeeded in his well meant efforts to blind Jack, and thus added another to his lengthy list of victories gained in the magic square. James Colville of Boston officiated as referee. It is probable that another match will be made between the two, but if it is made, it will be on the part of Weir to pay more attention to training than he generally does, for Havlin will be a more dangerous opponent next time than he was last week.

JOE RIDGE DEFEATS STEVE BRODIE.

The match between Steve Brodie, ex-pedestrian and bridge-jumper, and Joe Ridge of Pittsburgh, to fight with gloves, under Queensberry rules, for $200 and receipts, was decided July 23 on a boat on the Monongahela River. At nine o'clock the boat left the foot of Wood street, Pittsburgh, with about one hundred sporting men on board, while another fifty men were gathered up at points along the river. Ridge and his party came aboard at Braddock, and after a short ride further up the river the ring was pitched on the deck. Ridge was seconded by Ed. Berry, and Dave Thompson acted for Brodie. Ridge weighed 175 lb., and his opponent 180. After a minute's sparring, Brodie caught Ridge on the breast and received a return on the jaw. Then the boys went at it in earnest, and it was given and taken for the balance of the round with honors about even. In the second round Ridge landed the best of the fight, but Brodie kept countering with great regularity. Brodie often landed his glove on Ridge's ribs with telling effect, while the little one made play for the neck and face. The third round opened with Brodie a little more cautious, and toward the end of it Ridge had more confidence, and scored three or four blows on Brodie's nose. When they faced each other for the fourth round Brodie jumped at his man in hurricane style, only to meet with like treatment. The blows were fairly rained on the pugilists' bodies and faces, one of Brodie's swings catching Joe fairly on the nose and bringing the blood in a stream. In the fifth round Brodie brought his superior strength into play, and he kept beating a tattoo on Ridge's stomach and ribs during the entire round. Ridge clinched frequently, but broke promptly on call. Ridge continued to hammer away at Steve's face, but as far as punishment went the New Yorker had the best of matters. The sixth round was similar to the last, and Ridge began to show the effects of the blows he was receiving on his ribs. The seventh and last round was the most exciting of the fight, Brodie seemed in to follow up his advantage, but Ridge was game, and returned blow for blow. After a minute Ridge caught his man under the jaw, and Brodie fell heavily to the floor. It looked as if he was knocked out, but at the expiration of the allotted ten seconds Brodie staggered to his feet, only to receive another blow. Before the ten seconds had elapsed time was called, and the men were ordered to their corners. Brodie had to be helped to his chair, and when he got there he pulled off his gloves and acknowledged defeat. The time of the fight was twenty-six minutes.

DACEY WHIPS HOPPER.

The off-postponed fight between Billy Dacey and Jack Hopper took place on Long Island on the morning of Tuesday, July 19. The secret was well kept, and less than fifty spectators were present when the men entered the ring. Hopper was waited upon by Jack Howie Burgess, while Tom Barnes and Mike Mulry attended to Dacey. The latter was in much the better condition of the two, as Jack, since the match was declared off some weeks ago, neglected to take care of himself, and indulged too freely in creature comforts; the consequence was that very soon Dacey took a strong lead, his blows, delivered principally on the stomach, where his opponent was particularly tender, having much more effect than those of Hopper. At the end of the third round the latter was quite weak, and in the next he received a finisher, being unable to come to time after napping a right-hander on the jaw. After coming to his senses, Jack wanted to renew the battle, but of course that was out of the question, and he had to be content with the subscription that his conqueror generously collected for him.

STEVE O'REILLY, better known as "Seddons' Mouse," desires us to state that he is not the party who travels on the Coney Island boats, giving alleged exhibitions of the style of fighting adopted by him and the late George Seddons. The Mouse is at present, he informs us, keeping a saloon in Syracuse, N. Y., where he is doing an excellent business, and will be pleased to see and entertain all his old New York friends, as well as sportsmen from all parts.

FAY VS. DOHERTY.—A match has been made between Fay of Bridgeport, Ct., and Doherty of Cambridge, Mass., to fight with two-ounce gloves, eight rounds, in a few weeks, in the neighborhood of Boston. The match has been arranged for the purpose of testing the quality of Pat Sheedy's promise.

HENRY NIEKE of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Billy Hoy of Albany, N. Y., are matched to fight to a finish within a few miles of the latter place a fortnight hence. The Queensberry rules will govern the contest, and two-ounce gloves will be worn by the combatants. The stakes are $100 a side, and the gate receipts will also go to the winner.

LEWIS VS. GIBBS.—W. E. Gibbs, known as the "Kansas Demon," and Evan Lewis, the "Strangler," have signed an agreement for a mixed wrestling match of five falls, two Graco-Roman, two catch-as-catch-can, and, if necessary, the fifth to be decided by choice; to take place at the Clay-avenue Theatre, Muskegon, Mich., Aug. 2. The match is for $100, the gate-receipts to be divided, 50 per cent. to winner and 35 to loser.

BILLY MEYER of Streator, Ill., who whipped Jack Gallagher of Buffalo near that city on June 18, was recently indicted by the Grand Jury of Woodford County, Wis., and is now under a bond of $1,000 to answer to the charge of prize-fighting.

JACK BURKE has gone to San Francisco, Cal., where he is to meet Paddy Ryan in a glove contest in a few weeks, after which he proposes to make a trip to Australia. He is accompanied by Paddy Carroll, who will act as his trainer.

THE TURF.

LONG BRANCH RACES.

A Week of Rain and Mud—Hanover Easily Outranks Miss Ford.

The weather at the seashore on Tuesday, July 19, was delightfully cool and pleasant and was enjoyed by a large crowd at Monmouth Park. The chief event on the card was the Midsummer Handicap, which furnished an excellent race and an exciting finish between Dry Monopole and Estrella, the former carrying off the prize. As the little son of Glenelg-Peru had 121 lb. on his back, the race must be rated as one of the best ever credited to him. The Baldwin stable made its first appearance on the track, and was successful in landing the Lassie Stakes with Los Angeles, after a hard race with Austrienne and Belinda, besides running a close second for the Midsummer Handicap. The one highly thought of, Eole, with Barbee on his back, showed up in something like his old form, winning a good race from Ten Hooker, Saxony and other good horses. Result: Purse $500, for maidens, one mile—P. Lorillard Jr.'s Cambyse, 3-105, Rafferty, first, in 1:48; Puzzle, 3-100, Bender, second, by nearly three lengths; Ordway, 3-105, W. Donohue, third, six lengths behind. The Lassie Stakes, for two-year-olds, five furlongs—E. J. Baldwin's Los Angeles, 107, West, first, in 1:18; Austrienne, 103, Rafferty, second, by a neck; Belinda, 102, R. Hyslop, third, by a head. The Midsummer Handicap, a sweepstakes for all ages, $500 added, one mile—J. F. Wadsworth's Eole, 111, Henderson, second, by half a length; Keokuk, 5-117, Hamilton, third, three lengths off. The Dry Monopole and Estrella, a sweepstakes for all ages, $500 added, one mile—J. F. Wadsworth's Eole, 111, Henderson, second, by half a length; Keokuk, 5-117, Hamilton, third, three lengths off. The Dry Monopole and Estrella, a sweepstakes for all ages, $500 added, one mile—J. F. Wadsworth's Eole, 111, Henderson, second, by half a length; Keokuk, 5-117, Hamilton, third, three lengths off.

Thursday, 21, was a thoroughly miserable day at the course, rain falling almost incessantly and in large quantities from the start of the first race till long after the last. The program was not completed, and the drenched and disgusted spectators had taken the train for the city. Considering the weather, it was surprising to see so many people at the course, but then an extra attraction was offered in the meeting of Hanover and E. J. Baldwin's California, a risky mile and a half, while few, if any, expected to see the latter defeat the filly, even at the difference in weights, many thought that under the circumstances she would most likely make the Dwyer colt extend himself. This did not prove to be the case, however, for Hanover won the race in a very quiet and easy manner, as he has taken a dozen other victories during the season. This victory is the thirteenth in succession for the colt as a three-year-old, which, added to the three won by him in his two-year-old form, places him on an even footing with the English racer Ormonde. Three years ago, in the same race, he was beaten by Cassatt's Fetus, 4-114, J. McLaughlin, first, in 1:29; Bess, 4-109, Anderson, second, by a length; Young Duke, 6-120, McCarthy, third, two lengths behind. The Handicap sweepstakes, for two-year-olds, $25 each, $750 added, $150 to second, six furlongs—J. F. Wadsworth's Eole, 111, Henderson, first, in 1:17; Gaffney, 96, West, second, by a head; Omaha, 110, F. Littlefield, the favorite, third, a length away. The Barneat Stakes, for three-year-olds, $50 each, $1,500 added, $500 to second, penalties and allowances, one mile and a furlong—Fairfax Stable's Hypatia, 3-96, Anderson, first, in 1:59; Richmond, 5-119, Shauer, second, by a length; Stoneback, 5-110, Hayward, the favorite, third, less than a length. The Purse $500, handicap sweepstakes, for three-year-olds, $25 each, $750 added, $150 to second, six furlongs—J. F. Wadsworth's Eole, 111, Henderson, first, in 1:17; Gaffney, 96, West, second, by a head; Omaha, 110, F. Littlefield, the favorite, third, a length away. The Barneat Stakes, for three-year-olds, $50 each, $1,500 added, $500 to second, penalties and allowances, one mile and a furlong—Fairfax Stable's Hypatia, 3-96, Anderson, first, in 1:59; Richmond, 5-119, Shauer, second, by a length; Stoneback, 5-110, Hayward, the favorite, third, less than a length. The Purse $500, handicap sweepstakes, for three-year-olds, $25 each, $750 added, $150 to second, six furlongs—J. F. Wadsworth's Eole, 111, Henderson, first, in 1:17; Gaffney, 96, West, second, by a head; Omaha, 110, F. Littlefield, the favorite, third, a length away.

Thousands went to the course on Saturday, despite the inclemency of the weather, and a large crowd gathered with that prevailed on Thursday, while the track was deep in mud and water. Result: Handicap sweepstakes, $25 each, $750 added, $150 to second, one mile—Davis & Hall's Bess, 4-111, J. McLaughlin, the favorite, first, in 1:47; Eolian, 4-110, Hayward, second, by a length; Omaha, 110, F. Littlefield, third, a length behind. The Tyro Stakes, for two-year-olds, $100 each, $1,500 added, $500 to second, six furlongs—E. J. Baldwin's Los Angeles, 112, West, the favorite, first, in 1:16; Forthright, 111, J. McLaughlin, second, by a neck; Omaha, 112, F. Littlefield, third, five lengths behind. The Harvest Handicap, $50 each, $1,250 added, $300 to second, mile and a quarter—H. J. Woodford's Barnum, aged, 110, Fitzpatrick, first, in 2:04; Bonanza, 5-110, F. Littlefield, second, by a length; Fitzpatrick, 112, J. McLaughlin, third, three lengths behind. Handicap sweepstakes, $35 each, $1,000 added, $250 to second, a mile and a half—F. Ten Hooker's 4-98, Church, second, by two lengths; Fen Hooker's 4-112, J. McLaughlin, third, the same distance. Billow Welter Handicap Sweepstakes, $25 each, $600 added, $100 to second, one mile—P. J. Flynn's Young Duke, 6-150, Hamilton, the favorite, first, in 1:30; Britanic, 6-126, J. McLaughlin, second, by a neck; Shasta, 3-118, third, three lengths behind. The Purse $500, selling allowances, five furlongs—E. W. Heffer's Eufania, 3-104, Church, first, in 1:04; Catalpa, 3-100, Bender, second, by half a dozen lengths; Milton, 5-100, F. Littlefield, third, by two lengths. The Purse $800, handicap sweepstakes, over the full course—A. Lakeland's Harry Mann, aged, 140, Duffies, first, not time being taken; Jack, 6-135, Whyburn, second, by eight lengths; Jim McGowan, 6-157, Walker, the favorite, third.

ED. CORRIGAN was suspended last week for showing disrespect to and resisting the authority of the Washington Park judges, but, upon apologizing, the suspension was removed.

COL. M. LEWIS CLARK, president of the Louisville Jockey Club last week declined an offer to act as presiding judge of the Chicago Driving Park.

BRIGHTON BEACH RACES.

Cast-off Ploughing Through Mud-Eole Pays His Backers Well.

The meeting at the Coney Island track was continued on Wednesday, July 20, the weather being very pleasant and the assemblage large. The only noteworthy event of the afternoon was the victory of the old horse Suter, who was in with very light weight in a handicap, but was little thought of, and by winning paid his few backers $200.98 for each five dollars invested in the mutual pools. It was a great day for "Billy" Lakeland, who carried off three races, Hamilton having the mount in each. Result: Purse $200, for two-year-olds, selling allowances, six furlongs—Wm. Lakeland's Lottie Filmore, 107, Hamilton, first, in 1:38; Subaltern, 107, Palmer, second, by two lengths; Manhattan, 110, Maynard, the favorite, third, a length and a half away. The Purse $200, for three-year-olds, selling allowances, seven furlongs—F. W. Matthews' Widgeon, 103, Chandler, first, in 1:30; Edie Hardy, 101, Maddox, the favorite, second, by less than a length; Bonnie Lad, 111, Sexton, third, a dozen lengths away. The Purse $200, handicap, one mile—W. Lakeland's Tattler, 118, Hamilton, the favorite, first, in 1:45; Barbara, 5-95, Palmer, second, by half a length; Le Logos, 5-113, Martin, third, a length and a half behind. The Purse $300, handicap, one mile—J. Henry's Suter, aged, 95, McClellan, first, in 1:44; Lute Arnold, 4-108, Hamilton, second, by a length; Niagara, 3-96, Collier, the favorite, third, half a length behind. The Purse $250, for horses that had not won at this meeting or at Clifton in 1887, one mile and a sixteenth—J. F. Wadsworth's Eole, 111, Henderson, second, by half a length; Keokuk, 5-117, Hamilton, third, three lengths off. The Purse $250, for maidens, seven furlongs—William Lakeland's Peg Widdington, 2-108, W. S. Suter, first, in 1:34; Granite, 6-145, Henderson, second, by two lengths; Blizzard, 6-145, third, by the same distance.

Main field steadily on the afternoon of the 23d, and the track was deep in mud, but there were three thousand people present nevertheless. Result: Purse $200, for two-year-olds, six furlongs—Lucky Seven, 120, Leary, first, in 1:20; Palatka, 120, Chandler, the favorite, second, by two lengths; Lottie Filmore, 117, Hamilton, third, a length away. The Purse $200, for all ages, selling allowances, six furlongs—J. Henry's Suter, aged, 95, McClellan, first, in 1:44; Lute Arnold, 4-108, Hamilton, second, by a length; Niagara, 3-96, Collier, the favorite, third, half a length behind. The Purse $300, handicap, one mile and a furlong—Pink Cottage, aged, 114, Meehan, the favorite, first, in 2:00; Le Logos, 5-108, Green, second, by half a length; Beverly, 110, Stone, the favorite, third, a length away. The Purse $250, for beaten horses, selling allowances, seven furlongs—Kink, 3-103, Meagher, first, in 1:33; Luffeloff, 11, 5-117, Hamilton, second, by six lengths; Hazard, aged, 117, Maynard, third, four lengths behind. The Purse $250, for beaten horses, selling allowances, seven furlongs—Kink, 3-103, Meagher, first, in 1:33; Luffeloff, 11, 5-117, Hamilton, second, by six lengths; Hazard, aged, 117, Maynard, third, four lengths behind. The Purse $250, for beaten horses, selling allowances, seven furlongs—Kink, 3-103, Meagher, first, in 1:33; Luffeloff, 11, 5-117, Hamilton, second, by six lengths; Hazard, aged, 117, Maynard, third, four lengths behind.

Comparatively few people, instead of the big half-holiday crowd, visited the course on Saturday—a fact due to the prevalence of a heavy rainstorm, which made the track more fit for swimming than running. Good racing was not to be expected under the circumstances. Result: Purse $200, for three-year-olds, selling allowances, six furlongs—Manhattan, 115, Maynard, the favorite, first, in 1:23; Manhatta, 112, Sharkey, second, by six lengths; Kittle Koerber, 112, Palmer, third, two lengths away. The Purse $250, selling allowances, a mile and a sixteenth—J. Henry's Suter, aged, 95, McClellan, first, in 1:44; Lute Arnold, 4-108, Hamilton, second, by a length and a half; Lea, 5-95, Delong, the favorite, third, two lengths behind. The Purse $300, selling allowances, seven furlongs—A. Martin's Souvenir, 4-98, Martin, first, in 1:33; Galera, 4-106, Stone, second, by two lengths; Black Jack, aged, 104, Meagher, the favorite, third, four lengths behind. The Purse $250, six furlongs—J. Delany's Armstrong, 3-106, Delong, the favorite, first, in 1:19; Governor Roberts, 5-117, Martin, second, by six lengths; Suter, 95, McClellan, third, eight lengths behind. The Purse $250, for beaten horses, one mile—J. Henry's Suter, aged, 95, McClellan, first, in 1:44; Lute Arnold, 4-108, Hamilton, second, by a length; Lea, 5-95, Delong, the favorite, third, two lengths behind. The Purse $300, selling allowances, seven furlongs—A. Martin's Souvenir, 4-98, Martin, first, in 1:33; Galera, 4-106, Stone, second, by two lengths; Black Jack, aged, 104, Meagher, the favorite, third, four lengths behind. The Purse $250, six furlongs—J. Delany's Armstrong, 3-106, Delong, the favorite, first, in 1:19; Governor Roberts, 5-117, Martin, second, by six lengths; Suter, 95, McClellan, third, eight lengths behind. The Purse $250, for beaten horses, one mile—J. Henry's Suter, aged, 95, McClellan, first, in 1:44; Lute Arnold, 4-108, Hamilton, second, by a length; Lea, 5-95, Delong, the favorite, third, two lengths behind. The Purse $300, selling allowances, seven furlongs—A. Martin's Souvenir, 4-98, Martin, first, in 1:33; Galera, 4-106, Stone, second, by two lengths; Black Jack, aged, 104, Meagher, the favorite, third, four lengths behind. The Purse $250, six furlongs—J. Delany's Armstrong, 3-106, Delong, the favorite, first, in 1:19; Governor Roberts, 5-117, Martin, second, by six lengths; Suter, 95, McClellan, third, eight lengths behind. The Purse $250, for beaten horses, one mile—J. Henry's Suter, aged, 95, McClellan, first, in 1:44; Lute Arnold, 4-108, Hamilton, second, by a length; Lea, 5-95, Delong, the favorite, third, two lengths behind. The Purse $300, selling allowances, seven furlongs—A. Martin's Souvenir, 4-98, Martin, first, in 1:33; Galera, 4-106, Stone, second, by two lengths; Black Jack, aged, 104, Meagher, the favorite, third, four lengths behind. The Purse $250, six furlongs—J. Delany's Armstrong, 3-106, Delong, the favorite, first, in 1:19; Governor Roberts, 5-117, Martin, second, by six lengths; Suter, 95, McClellan, third, eight lengths behind. The Purse $250, for beaten horses, one mile—J. THE LIGHTKEEPER'S STORY.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.
BY NATHAN D. URMER.

Hez the lighthouse yonder a story? Well, yes, sir—kinder so:
An' the lone light at the cliff's black base,
where the breakers come an' go,
With yaller an' brown weeds trailin' almost to the headstun gray
Thet, too, is a part of the history of the staunch old tower's best day.
The last lightkeeper was Magby, who, along with his hearty wife,
An' me as assistant, trimmed the lamps through many a tempest's strife.
Year in an' out, we was lonely enough out here on the headland bare,
Till the night when the furrin brigantine went down on the reef out there.
An' little Clarry came in to us on a spar, when the storm had slack'd, Close wrapped in a drowned woman's arms—the only one saved, in fact.
There was never a hint of name or kin, but the one word "Clarry" stood out On a gush of spirit thet amid the gear of the old spar tossed about.
So, Clarry, or Clarry, we've named her, as the Magby's 'dopted child;
Fur they hadn't none of their own, d'y see; an' if she was a trifle spild
With the pettin' thet made fur her v'yagin' a Summer sea from the fust.
She seemed to take to it nat'ral-like, as though chipped from the upper crust.
An' trim as a flagstaff, saucy an' bright as a yacht's new figurehead.
She grew up here like a watersprite. An' at last,
when the old folks said
As they'd scraped together the wherewithal to send her away to school
In a long-up, swell academy, I felt like a lubberly fool.
Fur I'd kinder grown to worship her—but no matter; away she went.
An' fur three long years it was little we seed of Clarry, who mostly spent Her furloughs som'eres among new friends, to the old folks' grief an' mine.
An' even when back she came fur good, she was so remodelled an' fine
Thet we hardly knowed her to be the same little Clarry as barefooted old days.
The sands so jolly in spoken days. An' we felt as how we had shipped
In a sort of a dream-boat, short of grub, at the change in our bonny craft.
She was thet tricked out with conceit an' pride, an'
hollywooded fore an' aft.
But we kept on hopin' she'd tack about, an' give Natur' a chance ag'in.
To shine out with the old-time truth an' love as had painted under her been.
An' in spite of her ingratitude ways, I think we'd have still had faith in her.
If it hadn't been for a lover-chap, which his name was Seagrave, sir—
A trim-built, dashin' an' quick-eyed, cuss, more'n double her age, it's true.
But stuffed with fun, an' who knowed off-hand a ship's rig through an' through.
As perturbed to be on a fishin' lark 'round here in his yacht a spell.
While all the while courtin' our Clarry, who, as it afterwards came to tell,
Had knowed him at school, surreptitious-like, an'
was even dead gone on him.
When she sheeted him with her r'ials set in a way to make old eyes dim.
An' thet Magbys, seein' no squalls ahead, never played at open and shut.
But let him have his room, out an' out, an' the run of the lighthouse but.
Not doubtin' as little Clarry would sail some day in the chap's convey.
Till she tripped her anchor one night, an' thet was the end of our hope an' joy.
But we kept on hopin' ag'in all hope thet we'd hear of their marriage soon.
An' perhaps see 'em homeward bound once more
by the light of a honeymoon.
Till a fear crept up, like a blindin' fog on an iceberg-battered sea.
Thet the papers hadn't been signed at all, an' she'd drifted off to lee.
On a drear life-cruise fur better or worse as never could stand up stout.
To honest inspection afterwards. An' so it at last turned out.
Well, we kinder moped as if stunned a while, an'
afire the year had sped
The old woman died of a brokenheart, while, if Magby warn't dead,
He jest hazed around as if water-logged, with no spirit in sail or rope.
An' I—well, I worshiped the gal, you know, an'
my only remainin' hope
Was to some day fasten my grappin' hooks on thet Seagrave's throttle-valves.
An' then have it out—but no matter now; we can never with fate go halves.
The days, an' the months, an' the years swum by.
Old Magby an' I alone Kept trimmin' the lamps, an' no word or hint was ever by either thrown Of the loved an' lost, an' the drifted-out. An'
the lighthouse shak' grew.
An' was talkin' of bein' abandoned soon, which of course would out us two;
When at last there came up the nor'east blow as sufficed out the whole thing clean—
The gale of the last big Equinox thet you read of so much, I mean.
Talk of hurricans an' tornados! Why, there was never a one as blowed
A capful to thet nor'easter, sir! An' at nightfall, when we knowed
Thet a schooner out there on the Fyri'n Pan was bumpin' her life out fast,
There was nothin' left but to see her swamp, fur devil a boat could last
In the thunderin' seas, an' the bombs fell short, an'
the life-liners snapped half-way.
The lightning showed her a helpless wreck, an' at times, through the dusk an' spray,
We could see one chap, with axe in hand, as was makin' the splinters fly.
An' the form of a woman, all dressed in white,
lashed fast to a stump hard by.
There went up a groan from the crowded beach, to think of thet drownin' pair.
The brave an' the helpless side by side, right under our eyes out there.
An' we not able to cast an oar, or stretch out a hand to save.
So I hid my eyes, an' was feelin' soft, when a voice,
as from outen the grave,
Yelled close up my ear—for I'd come below, leavin'
Magby up in the dome—
A voice as holed out: "Look, old mate! there they are, an' they're comin' home!"
It was Mag hisself, an' all spyin' an' wild, as he hadn't been for an age.
"You're daft!" says I. "Take a squint," says he.
An' then, in a sort of rage,
He shoves me his night-glass, shoutin' ag'in: "I tell you it's them at last—Little Clarry an' Seagrave—comin' hum to make up fur the cryin' past!"
I thought him loony, but, sure enough, when I brought the glass to bear On the breakin' wreck, with a tremblin' hand, in the lightning's next big flare,
I seed he was right; it was Seagrave, sure, as was sellin' his life so game
For the white-draped form at the foremost stump, thet might have been Clarry's name.
From the cut of her jib, though crushed an' limp
as she was from the seas she shipped, No glass could have made her features out, an'
suthin' there was she gripped
Close up in her arms thet might have been a baby, fur all I knowed.
But jest thet minute the light shut down, an' the next shoreward rode
The biggest biller I ever see—a reg'lar water-wall—Thet seemed like the hull sea heaved to heaven, an'
we barely had time to crawl Out of reach as it struck the lighthouse base with a horrible, rendin' shock.
Then the tower crumbled, the gills were doused, an'
it seemed as the very rock
Was bein' crushed into pebbles an' sand, an' then,
in the next bright flare,
When the waves had sunk, there wasn't no wreck,
nor yet any lighthouse there!

Well, stranger, my yarn's about spun out, an' it's only left to say Thet—jest as her mother had come ashore twenty years ago—next day
Little Clarry come in on the broken mast, with a babe at breast, out there,
But both as cold as the foam that mixed with their seaweed tangled hair.
Ah! her face looking pinched an' careworn-like,
but otherwise soft an' sweet.
Yonder's their grave, where the rocks dead-black an' the cream of the sea-waves meet.
Old Magby drifted around here, dazed an' white,
fur a year or more.
When he slipped the cable, an' Seagrave's corpse never came to light on shore.
Yes—sounded, of course; but game, I say, an' a sailor every lach
As never took water from devil or man, or skulked in the deadliest pinch.
Thet's all, stranger—an' 'thank'ee' too! Who is it as lays, you ask?
The wildflower things on the headstun there, as if he enjoyed the task?
Well, I s'pose it's some simple old hulkin' fool of about my cut an' build,
As kept dreamin' of days on Summer sea till he gradually warped an' filled.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.
IRISH CHES CHRONICLE.—Thanks for the attention of sending us a copy of your exceedingly neat brochure;
but we do not require any more exchanges at present.
C. R. B.—Thank you for game and post only orders—all but the unwelcome notice of a period of prospective absence.
J. A. CARSON.—Thanks for solutions and correction.
R. O. YOUNG.—There was no "folly," nothing to "abandon," nor did we utter any "hasty and superficial criticism," but remain firmly convinced of the soundness of our position on both counts.

"Superficial Criticism."
"Maisy takes alive!" was our grandmother's ejaculation when anything astonished her. We thought of our venerable relative on reading an article with the above ponderous title flung point-blank at our head in the last issue of The Boston Post. "Maisy" was a second prize goodness! to copy the mild swear of good old Mr. Man-tin, can't a fellow express a doubt in the mildest possible language without being frightened nearly to death by such a missile as that? However, we are as far from being convinced as ever; and, like the stubborn Scotchman, Ah have ma dooka! As for keeping the presented silence in the future, we couldn't possibly undertake it—weren't born that way, so to speak.
Now, to be explicit. In the Milan committee, during nearly forty years watching the course of current chess history, and with facilities superior to most chess journalists here, we either never heard, or but casually, of any of the moves mentioned in the above chess history. That he is a brilliant and powerful master is well known; but that doesn't warrant the rank assigned him by The Post, which we copied. We have seen attempts made to select the twenty greatest masters there are twenty first class stars in the visible heavens
—a highly proper and poetical idea; but nobody ever chased Dr. J. among them. If winning a second prize in a local, if national, tourney makes such an extra competent antagonist for the Boston C. C., all right; you know better than we do on the Continent, "forsooth!" Our doubts are justified.
As to the other count, there was a positive error of statement on the part of the Post, the excuse that the great match, United States vs. the "Three Kingdoms," was not for a money consideration, does not excuse the Post from being so egregiously wrong in a private trial of skill, inseparably connected with the game. The first misstatement might have come from ignorance. For glory the match certainly was fought;
not glory to the public, but to the country whose banner each team displayed. To be sure, Mrs.
Gilbert did personally reap an enduring harvest of glory
on the noble field.
The match was publicly called, the contestants were publicly, not privately made. Each team had its manager by whom the players were so wisely selected, and into line as assigned. Under these conditions, about forty pairs entered the lists, each pair playing four games and reporting for agreement to report to their respective clubs; nobody dreaming that it was a personal matter, now so far as each set was a part of one grand whole.
Only if that didn't form a transatlantic, international chess match, nothing in the world ever did, or can form one.

OLYMPIC THEATRE. THEATRE COMIQUE.

PAT CONLEY, Proprietor.
EDWIN P. HILTON, Manager.

ST. PAUL, MINN.

This successful Theatre reopens its season
MONDAY, AUGUST 22, 1887, Greatly improved and beautified, and with room for the very best Specialty, Sensational and Minstrel attractions on the road.

READ THIS SPECIAL NOTICE!

Having extended my last season's contract with the above elegant, attractive and most successful Theatre (which also holds good at most of the first-class Northwestern Variety Theatres), I am now prepared to book FIRST-CLASS ARTISTS AND ARTISTES over my Circuit, opening at St. Paul Aug. 22, and later dates, other theatres to follow, and am pleased to state that at most of these places attendance in wine-rooms is optional with the artist. Those who have written for dates please write again, as my mail has miscarried. Address me at No. 152 BEECH STREET, CLEVELAND, O., until Aug. 1. After that date, direct

SATURDAY, JULY 30, 1887.

The Sculling Championship.

A perusal of the special report in our aquatic department shows the second race between Jacob Gaudaur and Edward Hanlan, rowed on Lake Calumet last Saturday, to have been one of the most curiously-conducted and unsatisfactory in the annals of rowing. In the morning of the day set for the race both principals appeared in the very acme of condition, and each spoke with extreme confidence of his ability to defeat his rival. In the afternoon the roughness of the water furnished a pretext for deferring the start till there was not enough daylight left to admit of the contestants being seen after they had rowed over a few hundred yards of the course, and which, according to report, prevented Gaudaur finding his turning buoy. To the latter sculler is mainly attributed this delay, he strenuously objecting to rowing in anything but fairly smooth water, which seems strange when we remember the condition of the water and the rainstorm through which he rowed to victory in fast time on Decoration-day. It was the province of the referee to settle the question of the suitability of the water, and while we do not for a moment doubt the honesty of his purpose, lack of experience and knowledge of the duties of his official position would certainly seem to have caused him to commit a grievous mistake in starting the race when he did. If the condition of the water was such that he could not send the men away while there was sufficient light to last until the race was finished, he should have postponed it till the next day, or longer, if necessary. An event of so much importance as a race for the championship, involving the loss of money wagered by many people, demanded that everything connected with it should be conducted in the fairest possible manner. It was the duty of the referee to see, so far as lay in his power, not only that the oarsmen had an even chance to win on their merits, but that spectators and bettors were protected in their rights. Such was not the case on Saturday, and it is no wonder that great dissatisfaction prevailed among the people who waited long and patiently to see nothing. As to the race itself, the manner in which it was rowed was rather surprising to those who had anticipated an up-and-down contest, especially the poor exhibition given by so fine an oarsman as Gaudaur. We are loth to ascribe unworthy motives to either man, but the story of the race printed in another column is certainly not calculated to impress on the mind of the principals. That a suspicion of wrong doing should obtain in connection with a championship contest is to be regretted.

The Volunteer.

General Paine's handsome new sloop, upon which it is now generally expected the universal Yankee nation will have to depend to retain possession of the prized America Cup, first stretched her canvas in Boston Harbor on Friday last, and has since then been given several trial trips. Upon every occasion, whether the wind was light, fresh or strong, in smooth water and rough, the boat behaved in a manner calculated to give entire satisfaction to her owner and designer, who were aboard of the vessel. Although short three or four tons of the ballast which is to be put into her, the Volunteer stood up stiffly in the face of a heavy blow and in a jumping sea, heeling considerably less than either the Mayflower or Puritan, according to the testimony of Captain Hoff, who by practical experience knows whereof he speaks. So far no opportunity has presented itself of testing her quality in a trial against some yacht with a reputation for speed and seaworthiness, but on the first day of sailing, when she got the benefit of the fresh breeze after entering the Sound, she fairly ran away from a couple of steam-tugs that had accompanied her from her anchorage. So far, therefore, the new boat has behaved admirably, strengthening the confidence felt in her ability to prevent the old cup from being carried across the Atlantic by the Thistle, now on her way to this country.

Here is an advertising pointer from the Noss Family: "Should anyone have any doubts about the efficacy of advertising, let him try an advertisement in THE CLIPPER, and he will soon be convinced. To our 'ad.' for an agent there was a host of responses, while the trunks we advertised were disposed of in one week after THE CLIPPER was issued. We owe thanks to your valuable journal."

News creditable to the American team of professional bicyclists now in England comes to us per submarine wire. On Thursday of last week William J. Morgan made a new record for a quarter-mile, and on the same day William M. Woodside eclipsed all former records for riding ten miles in that country. Although they have not been so successful as expected while abroad, these performances furnish evidence that they are on the improving list.

OUTDOOR SPORTS of all kinds suffered from the execrable weather which prevailed during the greater part of the past week. The attendance at the race-courses was greatly reduced; those who braved the storm in order to back their opinions were subjected to much discomfort, while the racing was spoiled by the conversion of the tracks into quagmires. Other events were necessarily postponed. The outlook for the present week is promising.

CLIPPER CORRESPONDENTS continue to be in demand as opera-house managers. Our Burlington, Ia., representative had hardly assumed the duties of his new position when our Fort Wayne, Ind., correspondent was similarly honored. It is peculiarly gratifying to know that all our bright young men acknowledge the practical value of THE CLIPPER as a training-school for managers.

HOSE-TEAM RECORD BEATEN.

A match race between the J. D. Serviss and E. D. Bronson hose-running teams of Amsterdam, N. Y., came off at the Serviss Driving Park July 15, 16. The terms of the contest were: A hub-and-hub race, dry run, standing start, sixteen men on each team, to run 200 yds., to hydrant, attach hose, lay 300 ft. of hose, break coupling, put on nozzle, each three full turns; cart to weigh not less than 400 lb., and 550 ft. of cotton rubber-line hose being carried, weighing not less than one pound to the foot. The first heat was won by the Serviss team in the unequalled time of 39s. The second was taken by the Bronsons in 41s., by reason of a cross thread on the part of their opponents. The third and last heat was also won by the Serviss team, who crossed the score at the finish in 39½s. Both teams consisted in great part of hired men, the Serviss having all the rope men of the well-known M. J. Finn running-hose team of Natick, Mass., consisting of Murphy, Mills, Slattery, Donlon, Hartley, McCann, Wells, Donovan, Farrell and Kimball, and the runs they made of 300 yds., with cart weighing, with hose, 754 lb., were wonderful, the first being 34½s.; second, 34s.; and third, 34½s. William H. Son, who claims the championship of the State, was the competitor for the whole team. The Bronsons had for rope men G. Smith, C. Gibson, Harry Bethune, Carruthers, Fitzgerald, Nikirk, Saunders, Van Auker, etc. The coupling for them was done by George W. Brett, the champion of Decatur, Ill. The race was governed by the New York State rules. We are in receipt of affidavits from Judge James A. Silliman and Howard Putnam, and from timekeepers L. Kellogg, R. F. Carney and L. H. Young, guaranteeing the correctness of distance and time, and that all the conditions of the agreement were faithfully carried out. The time made by the Serviss team in the first heat is now the best on record for the distance, the best previously made having been 40½s., by Rescue Hose Company of Muscatine, Ia., who drew a cart weighing 500 lb., while that of the Serviss weighed 407 lb.

THE BRICKLAYERS' GAMES.—The committee of the International Union of Bricklayers, No. 37, New York City, have fixed the following programme for Aug. 18, at Sulzer's Harlem River Park. Events open only to the trade—entrance free: Five miles run, two miles walk, shot, running broad-jump, half mile run (for apprentices under twenty years) tug-of-war (teams of four, weight confined to 650 lb.), jumping in sacks. Events open to all amateurs: Two miles walk, handicap; two hundred and twenty yards run, handicap; seven-fifty yards run, for that that never won a prize; mile run, for those who never beat 5 m.; relief race, obstacle race, mile walk, for all who never beat 7 m. 30s. Entrance fee, fifty cents, which must be sent to Jack Goulding, 105 East One-hundred-and-fiftieth street, New York City. Gold and silver medals in each event.

BRANTFORD VS. PARIS.—One of the most exciting and best-contested matches in the Canadian Lacrosse Association senior championship series was witnessed at Brantford July 18, by about 1,500 spectators. It was between the Brants of Paris and the Brantford three men's team. The game was played in the two and a half hours, resulting as follows: First game, won by Paris in 25m.; second, won by Brantford in 30m.; third, won by Brantford in 1h. 11m. There was seventeen minutes more to play, but as neither club showed interest in winning, the referee decided in favor of Brantford. This makes Brantford and Paris even for third place, each having won three and lost two games.

WITHDRAWN.—The fifty dollars deposited at this office with a challenge from Steve Farrell to Peter Priddy, to run a half mile, has been withdrawn. The challenging party having received notice, warning that the Pittsburgher does not wish to make a match to run for some time yet. If Nikirk, Case, Moffat, Stratton, or any other American or Canadian runner, bar Lon Myers, wants to try conclusions with Farrell at the distance, they can be accommodated upon sending word to THE CLIPPER office.

THE EVENTS that are to be decided at the games of the Bricklayers' Union, No. 37, at Sulzer's Harlem River Park, on Aug. 18, are as follows: 75 yds. run, for all who never won a prize; two mile handicap walk, one mile run, for all who never beat 5 m.; one mile walk, for all who never beat 7 m. 30s.; 220 yds. run, handicap; novice race, 100 yds., open to all amateurs. Gold and silver medals will reward the winners in each event. Entrance-fee, fifty cents, to be sent to Jack Goulding, 105 East One-hundred-and-fiftieth street, New York City.

A FIREMEN'S MEETING is to be held at the track of the Lynn (Mass.) Cycle Club Track Association, and under the auspices of said organization, on Aug. 25, 26, 27. Cash prizes aggregating $1,500 will be offered, and the events to be contested, including track hand-engine trials, horse races, hook-and-ladder contests, etc. It is understood that companies from Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts and New York have signified their intention to compete, so that there is good reason to anticipate a successful tournament.

THE GREEK AMATEUR ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION have challenged all amateur athletic clubs in the country to engage in a team race of five miles, five men on each team, competitors to score according to the order of finish, 1, 2, 3, etc., the club scoring the smallest number to be the winners. The trophy is to be a challenge cup emblematic of the club championship of the West. Communications should be addressed to Daniel C. Trench, 850 Lake street, Chicago, Ill.

MURPHY VS. ADAMS.—The challenge issued by the Missouri Amateur Athletic Association on behalf of James A. Murphy of that organization, has been accepted by William C. Adams of the Brooklyn Athletic Association. They will run half mile for a gold medal at the midsummer games of the M. A. A., to be held at St. Louis on July 30. This match will excite much interest in the West, where Murphy is highly thought of.

THE PARIS CRICKET LACROSSE CLUB went to Brantford on July 18, and engaged in a game with the Brantford Club, by whom they were beaten by a score of two goals to one. On the same day, at Orangeville, Ont., the Northwest District championship was contested for by the Dufferins of that place and the Owas of South Glengarry, the former taking four of the five goals won.

THE ALLEGHENY ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION, a professional organization, was formed at a meeting held at Tom Conners' sporting house, Allegheny City, Pa., last week. The officers are as follows: President, Jack Beck; treasurer, Tom Conners; secretary, George Fowler. The club intend fitting up a gymnasium.

J. R. MYERS of Minneapolis, and A. L. Grant of Toronto, Ont., ran one hundred yards, for a small stake, at Hamline, Minn., July 18, the former winning in the announced time of 10½s.

A FOOT-RACE, three-quarters of a mile, took place at Worcester, Mass., July 18, between J. D. Nolan of Norwich and T. J. Kennedy of the former place, Nolan winning in 4m. 45s.

NORMAN TAYLOR won the thirty-six hours race at Philon's Pavilion, Paterson, N. J., ending July 23. Peter Hegelman was second.

SPORTS AT THE SEASHORE.

The Cape May (N. J.) Athletic Club held games on the Ocean Boulevard on Saturday afternoon, July 23, which were very well attended, and can be classed as a success. Rain fell heavily during the morning, and the track was very heavy. Return: The first event was the one-hundred-yards run. The first heat was won by B. W. McIntosh, Philadelphia; George Brinton, Philadelphia, second. Second heat won by John C. Graham, Chester; Arthur Boehm, Baltimore, second. Final heat won by McIntosh, Brinton second. Time, 10½s. Brinton won broad-jump, running high-jump, clearing 5 ft. 4 in. in the latter, with J. W. Robinson, Philadelphia, second in both. J. K. Shell, Philadelphia, had a walk-over for the half-mile run. The one-hundred-yards race, for boys under seventeen, was won by E. S. Ramsdell, Germantown, in 11s. The half-mile bicycle race was won by Louis J. Kolb, Philadelphia; Louis A. Howell, Millville, second. The furlong run had five starters, and was won by R. W. McIntosh, with G. W. Hoskins, Philadelphia, second. Time, 24½s. The race for half a mile was won by Robert Richardson, with Thomas Robb a good second. Louis A. Howell won the one-mile bicycle race, with Louis Kolb second. W. C. Ridgway, Philadelphia, won the quarter-mile run; C. F. Matthews, Holy Beach, second. The last race, a half mile, was won by J. W. Robinson, with Harold V. Cleaver, Philadelphia, Whitton Evans second. The contestants swam about one-hundred yards in a rough surf, then ran up the beach, jumped over a hurdle 3 ft. 6 in. high, then ran up the beach and down past the grand stand. McIntosh jumped five times before clearing the bar. He was almost exhausted. Howell Finn, Philadelphia, won the two-hundred-yard swimming race.

THE AMATEUR CHAMPIONSHIP.—The games committee of the National Association met July 22 and agreed upon the following events for the championship meeting to be held on the Manhattan Club grounds, this city, Sept. 17: 100 yds. run, 220 yds. run, 440 yds. run, 880 yds. run, one-mile run, 120 yds. hurdle race (10 hurdles, 3 ft. 6 in. high), 220 yds. hurdle race (10 hurdles, 20 yds. apart, 2 ft. 6 in. high), one-mile walk, three-mile walk, five-mile run, throwing the hammer, throwing the 50 lb. weight, putting the 16 lb. shot, pole-vaulting, running long-jump, running high-jump and a bicycle race.

THURSDAY RACES for the championship of the North, eight counties, were decided at Manchester, Eng., July 9. In the hundred-yards race A. Wharton, the colored amateur champion, was beaten by F. T. Ritchie, whose time was 10½s., he finishing six inches in front. Wharton came so fast at the close that he was only a few inches ahead of Ritchie. A one-mile race was won by E. J. R. Cross, Oxford University (one of the team who are coming to the States), in 4m. 25½s.; G. W. Parry, second, by six yards.

WRESTLING MATCH.—The monotony of the Summer season was broken on Thursday night, July 21, by a wrestling contest at the Pavilion Theatre, Richmond, Va., between Greek George and Jim Miller. Miller won the first and fourth falls, Greek George the second and third. In the fifth George claimed a foul, which was allowed. The rules called for two rounds catch-as-catch-can, two Graco-Roman, the fifth to be decided by toss (which resulted in Graco-Roman). Another contest has been arranged for 28.

The following gentlemen were elected officers of the National Curling Club, at a meeting held in Chicago, Ill., last week: President, Gen. John McArthur, first vice-president, George Grievie; second vice-president, Thomas Hastings; secretary and treasurer, David Foulis, New York City. The next meeting will be held in New York the third Wednesday in September.

SHAMROCK BEATS OTTAWA.—A championship game of lacrosse was played at Montreal, Can., July 23, by the Shamrock Club of the city and the Ottawa team. The local team had the game in their own hands from the start and won in three straight goals, gained in 4m., 4m. and 4½s., respectively.

The annual games of the Philadelphia Clansmen will be held at Rising Sun Park, this city, on Aug. 8. A lengthy programme has been prepared for the occasion, prizes being offered for thirty-two track and field events, so that whoever attends should have plenty to amuse and entertain him.

WILLIAM B. PAGE, the American athlete, attempted to beat the best high-jumping record, 6 ft. 2 in., at the grounds of the London A. C., July 21, but failed, twice touching the bar as he went over at a height of 6 ft. 3 in.

R. C. CARTER of the New York Athletic Club started from scratch in a two-mile race at the Stamford Bridge Grounds, London, Eng., July 23, and was beaten five yards by Atkins, to whom he conceded ninety yards.

WILLIAM CUMMINGS and P. Cannon, the well-known English pedestrians, have been matched to run four, six and ten miles, each race for $250 a side, on Sept. 10, 24 and Oct. 8, respectively.

CHARLES GEORGE of Latrobe beat Frank McCall, Greensburg, Pa., in a one-hundred-yards foot-race, for $150 a side, at the latter place, July 22.

THE Minneapolis (Minn.) Lacrosse Club was organized last week with the following officers: President, G. C. Farley; secretary and treasurer, J. Koornman; captain, T. Markham.

.... The annual festival of the Brooklyn Schutzen Corps was held at Ridgewood Park, Brooklyn, N. Y., July 19, 20. Henry Mensing was crowned King of the Fest, and after being dragged around the park in a triumphal car by uniformed shooters was presented by Miss Emma Ichern with a laurel wreath, a gold medal and a prize of $25. The festival was a success.

.... Two bulldogs, owned respectively in Fall River, Mass., and Newport, R. I., fought for a good-sized stake in Tiverton, Mass., July 17, the Newport canine, recently imported, winning, after fighting an hour and twenty minutes.

.... Fireman Dennis of Engine 43, this city, has received a silver medal, commemorative of his heroism in rescuing from drowning Nathan Harris, seven years old, on Decoration-day. It was presented by the Life-saving Benevolent Society, who desired also to present him with a small sum of money, but the Fire Commissioners objected.

.... The tennis tournament at Ellerslie, N. J., closed on July 23. The prize for doubles was won by H. A. Taylor and R. L. Beckman, St. George Cricket Club, and the prize for singles was tied for by Messrs. Taylor and Stevens, who agreed to play off for the same in October next.

.... The finals in the first-class doubles at the tournament of the Brooklyn Hill Lawn-tennis Association was played July 23, and won by Carroll J. Post and Stark Battershall, beating J. Powers and W. A. Tomes, 6-3, 9-7, 6-4. Post won the first general prize for the greatest number of points, W. G. Hall taking the second, and the third going to J. Powers.

.... Arthur Chambers offers a championship collar for a puppy race, open to all, sweepstakes of $25 each, to be run at Pastime Park, Philadelphia, Pa., on Aug. 8. Entries can be made to Chambers, 3222 Ridge avenue, Philadelphia, Pa.

.... Joe Burton, the well-known canine fancier of Shoreditch, London, Eng., died at his residence on July 12, after a very short illness.

.... Daniel Lyons, who killed Joseph F. Quinn, the amateur athlete, in this city on July 5, was captured in Pittsburgh, Pa., last week. He had been apprehended by the police there while endeavoring to dispose of the proceeds of a burglary committed for the purpose of securing funds. He will be brought here on Friday of this week, probably.

"NEVER KNOWN TO FAIL."

TARRANT'S

EXTRACT OF

CUREN AND COPALBA

is an old, tried remedy, superior to any preparation hitherto invented, combining in a very highly concentrated form the medical properties of the Curens and Copalba. Its neat, portable form, freedom from taste and speedy action (it frequently cures in three or four days and always in less time than any other preparation) make "Tarrant's Extract" the most desirable remedy ever manufactured. To prevent fraud see that each package has a red strip across the face of label, with the signature of TAR-

RANT & CO. N. Y., upon it. Price, $1. Sold by all druggists.
